MOSCOW, Oct. 15.—German forces in the Crimea were gravely threatened with entrapment today by continuing Russian soldiers who captured the rail junction of Zaporozhe and severed the Melitopol-Crimea rail line in two places.

Announcement of the double victory was contained in the official Soviet communiqué and its midnight supplement.

Troops of the southwestern front, having broken fierce resistance of the enemy, today took by assault the town of Zaporozhe, the announcement said.

Industrial Center

Zaporozhe, industrial center some 70 miles due north of Melitopol and on the left bank of the Dnieper, was described by Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin as "the most important junction of railway and waterline communications and one of the decisive defense points of the Germans in the Crimea."

Its capture "will be a daring and headlong maneuver" when Soviet tanks broke into the city's outskirts and seized the railroad junction. Other parts of the town then were occupied, the enemy losing heavily in men and equipment.

Form Planes

As Russian forces battered their way across the Melitopol-Crimea rail line in two sectors, they began forming a pincer attack on the town. Within a few hours the town was fighting.

"The Germans incessantly bring up reserves and throw them into counterattacks," the Soviet report said.

Nazi casualties were high in the (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES

E. W. Eller, of the Ellwood road, reports to Pa. News that he saw two flocks of geese flying south, on Thursday afternoon.

In spite of the curfew of 10:30 p. m., out-of-state cars are seen on downtown streets with increasing frequency. And local motorists seem to be driving with increasing speed, particularly up and down Highland avenue. Was a time drivers observed the 35 mile an hour speed limit pretty conscientiously, for a few weeks.

Leaf hauling task of the city this year is assuming large proportions, as the huge piles of leaves accumulated in the streets in various parts of the city. In some sections Pa. News notes that residents are moving all of the leaves on the properties out into the streets.

Boys and girls around the city are entering into the task of collecting leaves for war salvage with a vim that promises that the collections this year will exceed all former records if enthusiasm of the youngsters can do it. It is probable however that the records cannot be as large as a year ago, because of the rationing situation and the fact that many homes will not have as many cans as were available a year ago.

Rain which threatened for a time early yesterday, failed to develop into any proportion to mean much in the way of ending the drought that has existed in this district for weeks.

New Heavy Air Raids Against Jap Positions In Southwest Pacific

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 15.—The United Nations air attack against Jap positions north and east of Australia continued unabated today with announcement of a new heavy raid against Kahili airdrome on Bougainville.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communiqué describing the assault, up on the airbase on the enemy's latest important Solomons stronghold followed announcement of Tuesday's devastating raid on Rabaul, key Jap bastion on neighboring New Britain.

The Kahili operation was carried out by heavy, torpedo and dive bombers—all operating with fighter escort. Described officially as a "strong morning coordinated attack," the mission left fires visible for 30 miles burning in supply areas of the "drome."

Jap Planes Routed

A force of 25 Jap fighter planes tried unsuccessfully to break up the attacking formations, but the raiders destroyed 12 of the enemy interceptors. This brought to 189 the total of Japanese aircraft shattered in two days in the Kahili-Rabaul areas.

"All of our planes returned," the communiqué added.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Official Washington was profoundly surprised today by Moscow reports that the Soviet government intends to inject the second front issue in the approaching conference of American, British and Soviet foreign ministers.

It was the understanding of the American government that the Moscow conference of foreign ministers would deal primarily with the political rather than the military aspects of the war and post-war problems.

It was with this understanding that Secretary of State Cordell Hull agreed to attend the conference. Furthermore, it was learned that nothing was said about raising the second front issue when the preliminary discussions concerning the agenda of the conference were being held.

Considerable Surprise

Thus, it was with considerable surprise that official Washington read the news reports of an editorial which has appeared in the Soviet newspaper Pravda almost on the eve of the opening of the Moscow conference.

That part of the editorial which has caused particular concern said that "joint (Allied military) action directed at hastening the rout of Hitler is an absolute prerequisite for solving all the other questions of post-war organization and for long and peaceful cooperation of the USSR, the United States and Britain to establish lasting peace."

The editorial also said that the meeting of the foreign ministers is confronted with the "practical tasks" of strengthening Anglo-American-Russian cooperation not only in the present war but in the post-war world.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A joint announcement by the state department and the Civil Aeronautics Board revealed today the United States government's intention to secure foreign landing rights for American commercial aviation in the post-war world.

The announcement also disclosed that the American government is prepared to grant foreign aviation companies landing rights in the United States.

The announcement did not state in what foreign countries the American government intends to secure landing rights for U. S. commercial aviation.

It merely outlined the procedure by which American companies could apply for landing rights abroad, and foreign interests could apply for similar privileges in this country.

The announcement also indicated that the final determination of what international air routes shall be allocated to individual American aviation companies will rest with President Roosevelt.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—United States Eighth Air Force headquarters today announced the destruction of 104 Nazi planes in the course of yesterday's heavy aerial bombardment by flying fortresses of the large ball bearing plant at Schweinfurt in central Germany.

A strong escort of Thunderbolt fighters accompanied the forts on the mission against the city producing approximately half of all the ball bearings used in the Nazi war machine.

Bitter Fights

In bitter dogfights between the forts and Thunderbolts against the German aircraft, the American heavy bombers knocked out 91 Nazi planes while the U. S. fighters accounted for 13 other enemy ships.

The attack cost the Eighth Air Force 60 heavy bombers and two fighters.

Although 60 is the largest number of fortresses ever lost in a single raid, it was explained that during a ground operation many a commander might be forced to give up more than the 600 men aboard the missing fortresses to destroy such a vital installation.

Although no official announcement was forthcoming immediately on results of the bombardment itself, all returning crew members indicated that the bombing of Schweinfurt was excellent.

The attack marked the second time that fortresses had blasted Schweinfurt. The American craft (Continued On Page Two)

Lt. Schweikert was pilot of a B-25 bomber which became lost in bad weather on a bombing mission, and when it did not return he was reported as missing to his family here on September 24. On September 30 the family received word that he was safe and well.

The other day they received a long letter, which contained the report made by him to his commanding officer of the events which took place during the time he was missing.

The family received a letter from him on July 20, of this year, which they have made public telling of another thrilling episode.

ALGIERS, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Heavy new bombardment of the Nazi-controlled railroad network north of Rome by American Flying Fortresses and Liberator bombers were reported by Allied headquarters today.

Medium Martin Marauder bombers at the same time struck a new town in the German line with a strong assault against the Argos airdrome.

A number of parked Nazi planes were wrecked. Fortresses covered familiar territory as they swept over the railway yards of industrial Terni, one of the most important rail communication centers for carrying German reinforcements to the front.

The forts which encountered no anti-aircraft fire blasted a factory and a gas works and left the north-west corner of the city a mass of flames and explosions. Columns of smoke poured skyward throughout the area.

Coming away from the target the forts ran into 35 Nazi fighters. The enemy formation fled after two Messerschmitt 109's were shot down. Terni previously was heavily damaged by Fortresses on Aug. 11. At that time many buildings were leveled.

"We the jury sworn to inquire into the cause of death of Miss Ola D. Rogers, find that she met death on the night of October 11, 1943 from injuries sustained when she was struck by the car of Ralph Pettit at the corner of Highland avenue and Park avenue in the city of New Castle, Pa.

"From the testimony submitted we believe evidence of reckless driving exists and we recommend further investigation by the district attorney."

This was the verdict of the coroner's jury Thursday night, October 15, at the inquest held in the office of Alderman James C. Bruce on North Jefferson street.

Eye Witnesses

Five witnesses were called by Coroner T. F. Nugent, who conducted the inquest. District Attorney Leroy Donaldson was present representing the commonwealth. Attorney James E. Chambers represented the family of the deceased.

K. Logan represented Ralph Pettit, the driver of the car.

Charles Shaff, a sailor home on furlough, was the first witness called. He said Ralph Pettit and he had called at the home of Miss Jane Pettit, picked her up and had then proceeded down Highland avenue about five minutes to seven.

Mr. Shaff said he saw Miss Rogers start to cross the street and that Pettit blew his horn and slowed his car. Miss Rogers then hesitated.

BIRDS MAKE CRASH LANDINGS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Apparently confused by low skyscrapers, birds winging southward on their annual autumn migration were making crash landings in many parts of Chicago today. One odd-looking fowl, taken by its captor to a police station, was described by an officer thus:

"It looks like a dog and snags viciously. It has eyes close to its bill with a gold rim around them."

That information, relayed to an ornithologist, brought this reply: "It's probably a bittern. Chicago is one of the major migration flyways and birds flying in over the lake become confused by the tall buildings."

KEARNY, N. J., Oct. 15.—(INS)—A wildcat strike that temporarily paralyzed vital war production in the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company's sprawling shipyard at Kearny, and forced 8,000 night shift men into idleness, appeared to be subsiding today.

Both company and union spokesmen agreed that operations were "almost normal" again, with virtually all of the 17,000 daylight employees on the job. Both also expressed belief that the "picture looked very promising" and an early end to the strike was anticipated.

Defense Line Of Germans North Of Volturno Totters

STEADY PROGRESS BY ALLIES REPORTED

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALGIERS, Oct. 15.—The German defense line north of the Volturno river tottered today under furious assault by Allied Fifth Army troops.

The assault troops were aided in their drive against the fiercely resisting Germans by an amphibious landing force which went ashore north of the Volturno river mouth to seize positions behind the Germans.

British Troops Land

The landing party consisted of British troops put ashore by units of the Royal Navy. After securing a beachhead the troops moved inland to the crest of the Apennines in the center of the trans-peninsular front.

The Fifth Army battled the Germans yard by yard to advance against strong position from the sea to the crest of the Apennines in the center of the trans-peninsular front.

Squeeze Play

Late battlefield dispatches said the Germans were being pushed back all along the Volturno river line while a "squeeze play" was in progress between the mouth of the river and the sector northeast of Caserta, where American troops are pushing westward in an effort to dominate high ground.

If this joint move is successful, the Germans will be compelled to abandon their entire Volturno position.

The successful new amphibious landing was made against stiff opposition from enemy troops. It was placed on high ground, rising at some points to 2,000 feet, some four miles inland on the north bank of the river.

The official communiqué said that (Continued On Page Two)

Germany Protests Portugal's Action In Ceding Azores

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Germany announced today that a formal protest had been made to Portugal over the ceding of bases in the Azores Islands to the Allies.

The Reich government reserves to itself the right to take such measures as may be necessary by the changed conditions in the Azores, the announcement said.

The official statement was broadcast by the Berlin radio, which said Japan also had protested through its minister at Lisbon.

Official German quarters, according to the London Evening Standard, were apprehensive that Portugal's action in handing a treaty of alliance with Britain would be likely to have a grave effect on Germany's relations with other neutral nations.

Neutral observers were reported looking to Turkey and Spain for signs of further diplomatic maneuvering as a result of the Portuguese precedent.

Arthur Mometer

"We've seen them go when the ground was dry, and the ground was fighting fast, and we've wondered a bit what they'd do in the wet. It's that sort of playing would last. So tonight we'll know or at least in the rain, we'd like to know if they're not and it plays all man-ner of tricks, so tonight's the night for the short-down friends, and the weather is fifty-six."

"We the jury sworn to inquire into the cause of death of Miss Olga D. Rogers, find that she met death on the night of October 11, 1943 from injuries sustained when she was struck by the car of Ralph Pettit at the corner of Highland avenue and Park avenue in the city of New Castle, Pa.

"From the testimony submitted we believe evidence of reckless driving exists and we recommend further investigation by the district attorney."

This was the verdict of the coroner's jury Thursday night, October 15, at the inquest held in the office of Alderman James C. Brice on North Jefferson street.

Eve Witnesses
Five witnesses were called by Coroner T. F. Nugent, who conducted the inquest. District Attorney LeRoy Donaldson was present representing the Commonwealth. Attorney James E. Chambers representing the family of the deceased school teacher and Attorney Edwin K. Logan represented Ralph Pettit, the driver of the car.

Charles Shoaff, a sailor home on furlough, was the first witness called. He said Ralph Pettit and he had called at the home of Miss Jane Patchell, picked her up and had then proceeded down Highland avenue about five minutes to seven. Mr. Shoaff said he saw Miss Rogers start to cross the street and that Pettit blew his horn and slowed his car. Miss Rogers then hesitated. Mr. Shoaff said, and Pettit in (Continued On Page Two)

BIRDS MAKE CRASH LANDINGS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Apparently confused by loop scyrapers, birds winging southward on their annual autumn migration were making crash landings in many parts of Chicago today. One odd-looking fowl, taken by its captor to a police station, was described by an officer thus:

"It barks like a dog and snaps viciously. It has eyes close to its bill with a gold rim around them. That information, relayed to an ornithologist, brought this reply:

"It's probably a bittern. Chicago is one of the major migration flyways and birds flying in over the lake become confused by the tall buildings."

STRIKE IS SUBSIDING AT KEARNY SHIPBUILDING PLANT

KEARNY, N. J., Oct. 15.—(INS)—A wildcat strike that temporarily paralyzed vital war production in the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company's sprawling shipyard at Kearny, and forced 8,000 night shift men into idleness, appeared to be subsiding today.

Both company and union spokesmen agreed that operations were "almost normal" again, with virtually all of the 17,000 daylight employees on the job. Both also expressed belief that the "picture looked very promising," and an early end to the strike was anticipated.

Germany Protests Portugal's Action In Ceding Azores

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Germany announced today that a formal protest had been made to Portugal over the ceding of bases in the Azores Islands to the Allies.

The Reich government reserves to itself the right to take such measures as may be necessary by the changed conditions in the Azores," the announcement said.

The official statement was broadcast by the Berlin radio, which said Japan also had protested through its minister at Lisbon.

Official German quarters, according to the London Evening Standard, were apprehensive that Portugal's action in honoring a treaty of alliance with Britain would be likely to have a grave effect on Germany's relations with other neutral nations.

Neutral observers were reported looking to Turkey and Spain for signs of further diplomatic maneuvering as a result of the Portuguese precedent.

Defense Line Of Germans North Of Volturmo Totters

Fifth Army Smashes Ahead

German Line

STEADY PROGRESS BY ALLIES REPORTED

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALGIERS, Oct. 15.—The German defense line north of the Volturmo river tottered today under furious assault by Allied Fifth Army troops.

The assault troops were aided in their drive against the fiercely resisting Germans by an amphibious landing force which went ashore north of the Volturmo river mouth to seize positions behind the Germans.

British Troops Land
The landing party consisted of British troops put ashore by units of the Royal Navy. After securing a beachhead they drove forward to effect a junction with the Fifth Army troops and added the weight of their armor and artillery to the assault against the German defense line.

The Fifth Army battled the Germans yard by yard to advance against a strong position from the sea to the crest of the Apennines in the center of the trans-peninsular front.

Squeeze Play
Late battlefield dispatches said the Germans were being pushed back all along the Volturmo river line while a "squeeze play" was in progress between the mouth of the river and the sector northeast of Clazzia, where American troops are employed on high ground, ruing at some points to 2,000 feet some four miles inland on the north bank of the river.

The successful new amphibious landing was made against stiff opposition from enemy troops firmly employed on high ground, ruing at some points to 2,000 feet some four miles inland on the north bank of the river.

The official communiqué said that (Continued On Page Two)

We've seen them go when the ground was dry, and the gridiron lightning fast, and we've wondered a bit what they'd do in the wet, if that sort of playing would last. So tonight we'll know or at least in part, just what they can do in the rain, we'd like to know if the war, they've had can be repeated again. For a football's shippery when it's wet and it plays all manner of tricks, so tonight's the night for the show-down friends, and the weather is fifty-six.

Contractor Begins Preliminary Work On East Washington Street, It Is Announced

EMPLOYEES of Roy Furman, contractor, today commenced work in East Washington street preliminary to resurfacing of that street between the city line and Butler avenue. North Mill street and Highland avenue also are on the resurfacing program.

The contractor arrived here yesterday conferred with members of council and said machinery for the project would start arriving here some time today.

Meanwhile he dispatched a force of men to raise man-holes and other openings in East Washington street will be closed.

The contract awarded at a low bid of $65,000, was awarded recently by the state highway department to Furman which was acceptable to the city of New Castle.

Only recently Contractor Furman's employees resurfaced several thoroughfares here. The work was done expeditiously and citizens appreciated what they believe to be good resurfacing.

Guadalcanal Shows Progress

Island Has Become Safe And Progressive As U. S. Community

MANY STREETS AND BUILDINGS NOW

By PAT ROBINSON
INS War Correspondent
GUADALCANAL, Oct. 15.—(Delayed)—This island, which early this year was still the scene of bitter fighting between Americans and Japs, now has become almost as safe and progressive as the main stem in your home town.

We have virtually everything on Guadalcanal now except the Kiwanis and Rotarians and we expect to show up any day.

New Buildings
Roads are fingered out all over the island; new buildings are going up daily; the natives are going around in a few American togs; new airstrips are stretching among the palm trees and the last straw came today when Capt. Ben Bosley, veteran special service officer from Chicago, assured me he would soon have a soft drink stand in operation.

Yes, the original Guadalcanal marines would not recognize the old place now. Bosley is building a theatre with a stage 54x74 feet, and the seating capacity will be at least 1500.

He is building tennis and badminton courts and a baseball diamond. He will have showers and lounging rooms, reading and writing rooms, a cafeteria in a patio and a large supply of films and books to distribute. The main building for all this has two wings and each wing is 120x40 feet.

His set-up would do credit to an amusement spot in any American city and you might think this a tropical paradise until you noted the ominous dug-outs built for shelter during the occasional bombing raids at night.

I wanted to ask the captain where he got the 120,000 feet of lumber necessary to build his establishment but such questions are not considered polite in the army. Enough to say that he dug up the lumber somewhere and once he had it, the obliging Seabees of the navy pitched in to build it for him.

The captain was in the last war and he knows his way about an army. This is another way of saying that he knows how to produce stuff where even a three star general might fail to find it.

You can ask Bosley for almost anything under the sun and if it is possible to get it, he'll get it, and you are not supposed to ask where he got it. Suffice it to say, he gets it, because he's that kind of a guy.

NEW HEAVY AIR RAIDS AGAINST JAP POSITIONS

ply depots destroyed, the Kaiti raiders demolished buildings and silenced gun positions with direct bomb hits. A bridge in the area also was blown up.

Meanwhile, medium bombers on a night reconnaissance mission added to the tally of 123 enemy war vessels destroyed at Rabaul. In an assault from masthead height against shipping at Noumea, New Caledonia, the allied airman bombed two large enemy cargo ships south of Boua, New Ireland. Both were left badly damaged and believed sinking.

Elsewhere throughout the island are of Jap positions above Australia, allied fliers left an 800-ton merchant vessel smoking and heading for shore at Cape Lae on Timor; strafed and bombed shipping east of Cape St. George, New Ireland, and damaged a medium freighter-transport in the Banda sea besides strafing a small schooner near Soemba island in the Flores sea.

Heavy and medium bombers, meanwhile, attacked Penfoul airbase in a night raid over Kupang in Timor. Fuel storage tanks were blown up; fires were started in aircraft dispersal areas and explosions occurred among various buildings. All the allied aircraft returned.

first battered the ball bearing plants in August at the same time targets at Regensburg were hit. At that time 59 forts were lost. The attacking planes then destroyed 147 of the Nazi fighters.

Admit Heavy Raid
The Nazis themselves admitted the second raid on Schweinfurt was heavy. A German overseas broadcast asserted considerable damage was done in the residential section.

The importance of the attack was indicated by the ferocity with which the Germans sought to stem the assault. The Nazis tried desperately to break up the fortress formations and turn them away. Pilots of the American craft said they met swarms of fighters immediately after crossing the coast of the continent.

The German agency DNB reported that "foreign planes," including fighters, landed in Switzerland yesterday but the number was not disclosed.

European headquarters of the United States army reported meanwhile that the Focke-Wulf assembly plant at Marienburg and the component factory at Anklam were knocked out of production as a result of Saturday's American raids.

GERMAN FORCES MAY BE TRAPPED IN THE CRIMEA

fierce fighting, raging undiminished in the central and lower reaches of the 1,800-mile long Russian front. An estimated 6,500 Germans were killed around Melitopol, Kiev and Gomel, alone.

North and south of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, Russian forces considerably improved their positions on the west bank of the mighty Dnieper river. German counterattacks to regain lost positions were repelled in engagements described officially as "extremely intense."

Around the White Russian city of Gomel, Russian forces fought to extend bridgeheads across the Sozh river north and south of the key communications center.

Attacking Kiev
MOSCOW, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Swift-moving cavalry, as well as Russian tanks and infantry forces, today were reported attacking the outer defenses of Kiev, the Soviet Union's third largest city.

Front dispatches told of "fighting of unsurpassed ferocity" around the vital Dnieper river communications and industrial center.

The Russian besieging forces, under Gen. F. Rokossovsky, had left their original bridgeheads across the broad river for behind, driving under a strong aerial canopy against the Nazi garrison within the city.

Meanwhile, far to the south hard-driving Soviet troops rushed on beyond newly-captured Zaporozhe. These forces, together with those which severed the Melitopol-Gomel railway in two places, sought to trap the German army still in the Crimea.

(The British radio reported that the fall of Melitopol, commanding the rail line into the Crimea, was "imminent.")

CORONER PROBES AUTO FATALITY

creased the speed of his car, believing the woman would wait. He said it was not dark, that visibility was good, and estimated the speed of the car at about 20 miles per hour when they approached Park avenue.

W. Russell Allen was the next witness called. He testified that he had followed the Pettit car down Highland avenue on the night of October 11, that the time was about 7 o'clock and that his speed, which was about the same as that of the Pettit car, was about 30 miles per hour. Mr. Allen said he was not certain but he thought the Pettit car had no lights.

Mr. Allen said he saw Miss Rogers when he was about even with the Highland school. As the Pettit car approached the intersection of Park and Highland, Mr. Allen said it seemed apparent to him that Miss Rogers would be struck. Being directly in back of the Pettit car he did not see Miss Rogers struck but heard the crash and saw the body lying in the street as the car went on.

He said he thought the car was not going to stop and he started after it, but that the driver pulled up to the curb about 100 feet from the point of the accident.

Mrs. W. Russell Allen was next called and corroborated the testimony of her husband. She said she did not get out of the car immediately after they parked as she was nervous from the experience she had just been through.

Glen Bell was called and said he was in a nearby gas station when the accident occurred. He rushed out when he heard the crash, called an ambulance and assisted in directing traffic.

Miss Jane Patchell was the last witness called. She testified to having seen Miss Rogers get off the bus at the corner of Park and Highland and start to cross Highland. She testified that the car was never above 20 miles per hour and that when they approached Miss Rogers, Pettit slowed down, and shifted to second gear, then into low gear. She said that when the car struck Miss Rogers it was going between five and ten miles per hour.

The jury then retired and arrived at its verdict.

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. J. Norman Martin
After over two months of illness Mrs. Jane A. Martin, aged 83, wife of J. Norman Martin, died at the residence, 321 North Mercer street, Thursday, October 14.

Mrs. Martin was born in Steubenville, O., April 28, 1860, daughter of the Rev. John Kennedy Andrews and Sarah Wood Andrews. Some time later Mr. Andrews came to Mahoningtown where he was pastor of the Presbyterian church for many years. During that time Mrs. Martin attended Glendale college, Glendale, O., and after her graduation returned to New Castle where she taught in the grade schools for four years and was principal of the high school for two years, succeeding her sister, Belle G. Andrews, who was the first principal.

She was married to J. Norman Martin on November 24, 1884, in Bedford, Pa., and since that time had lived continuously in this city. Mrs. Martin was a charter member of the Music club, organized the Jameson Memorial Hospital Aid society, and was a member of the First Presbyterian church where she had, for many years, been active in the Lydia society and a leader of the A. B. D. class.

She is survived by her husband and one son, Norman A. Martin. Four brothers and two sisters preceded her in death.

Funeral services are to be conducted at the family residence, 302 North Mercer street, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be in Oak Park cemetery. (Please omit flowers.)

Wilkinson Funeral Change
Funeral services for Attorney Hamilton A. Wilkinson, 332 East Park avenue, will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the R. L. Boyd funeral home, North Jefferson street, instead of at the residence as originally planned.

The body will be taken from the residence to the funeral home Saturday at noon.

Interment will be in Graceland cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Clark
Mrs. Sarah Ann Clark, aged 74, of 808 Chestnut street, died this morning at 8 o'clock at her residence after a long illness.

Mrs. Clark was born in Mercer county on April 24, 1869, daughter of Daniel and Hannah Holmes Buckley. She was a member of the Second United Presbyterian church. Her husband, John W. Clark, preceded her in death in 1939.

Survivors are four children, Mrs. Marie Shaffer, Mrs. Grace Heckathorn, both of New Castle, John B. Clark of Oil City, Carl W. Clark of New Castle; nine grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; her step-mother, Mrs. Nan Buckley of Grove City, and two brothers, John and Joseph Buckley, Mercer county.

The body is being taken from the Joseph B. Leyde mortuary, Highland at Winter, to the residence this evening. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence with Rev. J. Calvin Rose, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, in charge, assisted by Rev. D. R. Nuzum of the Church of the Nazarene. Interment will be in Graceland cemetery.

Mrs. Sennett Funeral
Solemn requiem high mass for Mrs. Ellen Elizabeth Mack Sennett, 1429 West Washington street, was celebrated this morning at 10 o'clock in St. Mary's church with Rev. Fr. Francis McGarvey as celebrant, Rev. Fr. Francis King as deacon and Rev. Fr. Leo S. Watterson as sub-deacon.

Palbearers were Richard Roach, William Gilboy, Sgt. Walter Hanon, Thomas Hannon, Jack Mulcahy and Edward O'Leary.

Rev. Fr. McGarvey conducted the communal service at the grave in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Johnson Funeral
Funeral services for Mrs. Leslie B. Johnson, 9 Robinson street, were conducted Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Offutt funeral home, North Mercer street, with Rev. D. R. Nuzum, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, in charge.

Two selections were sung during services by Mrs. Frances Poles, Mrs. Lois Hill and Mrs. Ruth Nuzum.

Palbearers were John Kaufman, Joseph Kaufman, Oscar Johnson, Harry Cumberland, Arnold Johnson and W. C. Ender.

Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Henry Christie
Henry Christie, aged 77, of Natrona Heights, died following an operation this morning in Natrona Heights hospital.

Mr. Christie was a former New Castle resident.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the home of his son, Richard Christie, Brackenridge.

Men Really A Big Surprise

constant barrage in an effort to force the Germans back in the direction of the Garigliano river, appreciably close to Rome.

Germany's third armored division received the brunt of the Fifth Army blow when Gen. Clark's troops swarmed across the Volturno to the north bank and was forced to reel backward.

The plunge across the swift-flowing, rain-swollen Volturno marked the largest inland over-water operation yet carried out by the Allies. Fifth Army forces secured several bridgeheads on the north bank under cover of artillery blows and with the aid of tanks.

The main bridgeheads were established east and west of captured Capua which lies on the south bank. Unofficial reports said that the troops which went across to the north bank from Capua succeeded in cutting the main road to Rome.

Land Behind Defense Line
The Allied troops which went ashore immediately established a beachhead placing them at the back of the Nazi defense line being hammered in a frontal assault by Fifth Army units which swarmed across the Volturno from the south bank.

Light naval forces bombarded enemy targets in area in support of the landing units.

Several new bridgeheads were established by the Fifth Army on the north bank in heavy fighting all along the Volturno line.

"Our troops have established several bridgeheads in the face of strong enemy resistance, and infantry, tanks and supporting weapons are being carried across," Eisenhower's communique said.

Headquarters described the Volturno as a formidable obstacle—a swift-flowing stream with steep banks.

Steady progress north of the Volturno sector was reported and the communique announced capture of Casselândia.

In addition to the bombardment of Termini planes of the northwest African air force blasted railroads south of Guilinoia and north of Pescara on the east coast.

Fighter-bombers destroyed three German trains in the Pescara area. Rail junctions and crossings near Foggia were bombed at night and motor transport in the Chieti area was bombed and strafed. Three locomotives and many railway trains were hit.

Radio Algiers, reported steady advances by the Allies on the central sector of the battlefield, said that Vinchiaturo, 23 miles north of Benevento, had been captured. The Allies' transmitter, according to Reuters, quoted semi-official reports.

"The Nazi-controlled Vichy radio said that the Allies had launched violent attacks supported by considerable artillery and tanks" between Pontelandolfo and Vinchiaturo.

German defense forces on the north bank of the Volturno strove desperately to prevent Gen. Mark W. Clark's army from making a large-scale break-through along the highway to the Italian capital.

Those familiar with Secretary Hull's views are convinced he will refuse to be drawn into any protracted discussion of Allied military strategy at the Moscow conference.

If the second front issue actually is raised at the meeting by Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov, it is believed Hull will point out that he is not qualified to discuss military strategy.

FINE PAPERS HEARD BY READING CIRCLE '06

Mrs. P. D. Gemmill, Ellwood-New Castle road, extended hospitality to members of the Reading Circle '06 in her home Thursday afternoon. A large number responded to roll call by telling "A tree product." Following, a number of fine papers were contributed by several.

"Joe Co's Trees Live On" was the subject chosen by Mrs. L. T. Moore for her article. "Big Trees in Holiday Feat" was the title given by Mrs. W. R. McKnight, while the theme "Only God Can Make A Tree" was the subject of the paper read by Mrs. J. H. Kocher. The concluding paper on "The New Northwest Passage" was given by Mrs. C. J. Streib.

Adding variety, two short poems "When The Acorns Drop" and "The Redwoods" were given by Mrs. H. C. Mitchell.

A brief business period rounded out the afternoon activities, when it was decided to subscribe to the Rose Memorial Fund, honoring our men in service.

October 28 the membership will meet in regular session with Mrs. P. K. Pike, Sheridan avenue.

ASSURANCE FROM JONES

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE JESSE JONES has blueprinted what he conceives should be the lineup between government and industry after the war. Government should get out of active participation in industry as soon as it can and with as little loss as possible when peace shall have been restored. Industry should not look upon the many war plants erected at public expense with greedy eye, striving to get them at too great expense to the taxpayers.

This is less trite than it seems, coming from an administration spokesman. It was an assurance that the administration, if then in power, would move as quickly as possible after the war to restore the system of free enterprise. The speed and smoothness with which this is accomplished will depend upon the cooperation that is extended by industry. This is the Jones viewpoint.

While emphasizing that war production must be continued at high level, Mr. Jones indicated his belief that it was none too early for industry to begin postwar planning—planning on a scale that would encompass not only the domestic field but also the devastated countries. He anticipates that in these countries will be found use for a great part of excess American plant facilities and supplies. Without such diversion, these surpluses might prove embarrassing, which may have been one of the things Mr. Jones had in mind in declaring that the future of American economy will depend in large measure upon how the postwar world is organized.

The basic need will be finding "new jobs, new markets, new outlets." It is not a problem that industry can solve alone. Government, "in many instances, must continue to make investments and take risks which private capital cannot afford." But Mr. Jones should be reminded that there were few risks private capital could not take in the days before federal taxes became confiscatory.

NEW CHINA'S PRESS

Wide-awake China in the postwar era will have English language newspapers, after the conventional American pattern, at Chungking and later in other leading cities. This is the obvious and hopeful significance of the opening at the Chinese capital, with thirty-two carefully winnowed students, of a Graduate School of Journalism, made possible by two anonymous gifts, totaling $75,000, to the Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia.

Soon branches will be established in three other cities. Prof. Harold L. Cross, on leave of absence from Columbia, has been selected by Dean Carl W. Ackerman to be dean of the new school. Four American journalists are on their way to join the faculty, with three more to follow.

Columbia's part in this undertaking is to get it organized and in good working order, then to step back and let the graduate school function autonomously as part of the Central Political Institute of China, of which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is chancellor. A part of the agreement reached is to have Chinese undergraduates study at Columbia and then return to China to become journalists and teachers.

Ultimate success of any such program cannot fail to hinge largely on native reader interest. If it were intended that these papers cater to a clientele almost wholly foreign, such a school as has already been set up would not be needed. The inference seems to be that China's new papers when they appear will be principally for native consumption.

This, in turn, implies a wider spread of the knowledge of English when China takes her expected place in world councils and world trade. When it comes to the question of American technique in newspaper presentation it will remain to be seen how far they will be acceptable to, and how far modified by, Oriental taste.

SPEED AT THE TABLE

Somewhat the necessity for a major postwar rehabilitation project has escaped notice until now, probably because there were more important things attracting the attention of the planners for the era after the war. The reference is to the fact that something may have to be done about the state of the table manners of the nation's very best young men.

Long months of eating in Army messes have, inevitably, resulted in a definite atrophy of table manners so that those who have considered the problem and its relation to postwar society have good reason to shudder. A New York Times correspondent takes cognizance of the problem, in a story about the madcap dining atmosphere in a requisitioned hotel in Algiers, and speculates on what will be the effect of the contemporary dining habits of the men in this one officers' mess on the cool, orderly tables that their wives and mothers will have waiting for them.

At the bottom of this sad state is the urgent need for speed. Men who have a time limit for their eating can not be expected to indulge in the peacetime niceties of Emily Post. If they want the apple butter at the other end of the table, they don't ask—they reach. Nor is a hungry man likely to do without his coffee if he doesn't have a spoon to stir it with. He'll likely use his fork.

Perhaps the damage to table manners is not as serious as might be imagined. But it may be a good idea for civilians to be prepared to exercise great tact when these fighting men return for their first meal at home. Let there be no looks of reproach of any strong eating habits that the returned service man might display.

It may take him a little time to get conditioned to the idea that dining can be a leisurely affair.

When bigger and more complicated tax laws are built Congress will build them.

Dispatches are to the effect that a German general was captured while in bed sleeping. We can't think of any better place to be taken prisoner by the enemy.

There are indications that the government will not be able to spend $100,000,000,000 this fiscal year, but with more experience it may be able to make it next year.

The Parent Problem

By Gary C. Myers, Ph. D.

YOUTH FALLS SHORT IN PRECISION SKILLS

Almost any officer in the armed forces could tell you that the modern youth falls short on habits of precision, that in matters involving scientific facts and mathematical skills the graduates from our high schools are pretty weak. For years, college teachers have been saying the same thing. So also high school teachers have claimed that the child coming from the elementary grades, lacks a "passion for precision," has a smattering of many facts and skills but mastery of relatively few.

We are inclined to place the blame on the teachers but we should not. They generally try to teach as they were trained to teach at our teachers' colleges or are directed by their supervisors on the job. Their teacher-training and present supervision, in turn, hinge on the prevailing philosophy of education, especially at the elementary grade levels, which for years has placed chief emphasis on many impressions and exposure to many facts with relatively little emphasis on accuracy of facts and precision in the fundamental skills.

Numerous drill exercises of the modern classrooms and tests, most of which are against the watch, make the child discover it is better to be rapid than right, better to answer something, even guess, than to leave a blank or admit he does not know.

What is being learned from this war is going to make a difference in the way our children will be taught. Accuracy will be taken from the scaffold and placed upon the throne and stop-watch teaching will give place to calm, careful reflective learning. Then the student typified by the lad of the following letter will have the opportunity and encouragement he deserves.

"Dear Dr. Myers: I wonder if you could give me some advice that would help me in the following problem. My boy in the ninth grade is nearly fifteen. His teachers report that he turns in the best work of any boy in the school, but that he is so slow. For instance, he is usually a unit behind at the end of the term. No matter what he does he does thoroughly. In church work he is the only boy that turns in 100 per cent on the tasks allotted to him. A self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed."

In reply to this mother, I urged her to encourage her son in his good habits of precision and to try to persuade his teachers to do likewise; but to look into his basic skills and mode of study with a view to help him gain better results from his efforts. He might, for example, be a poor reader and his basic skills in arithmetic might need improvement. In the long run, however, his cautious habits should prove very valuable to him. I sent her my "Tips to Students," and "Home helps for poor readers, part II."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. At what time do you think children of this generation should come home from parties?

A. Not later than 10 for children under 15; for older children, especially for the duration, 11 would be a reasonable hour.

Whereupon a man in the fourth row from the front arose, turned his back to the speaker, and addressing the rear of the hall, demanded, "Can't that man hear?" THE WIFE WHO CAN KEEP HOUSE

Girls have been arguing for years that it is not necessary for them to learn domestic science. Almost every young girl dreams that she will have a doting husband, a beautiful home and a staff of super-efficient servants. So why, then, does she worry about learning to cook and keep house? If she intends to be a career woman, an all her life she need not worry about learning to cook and keep house. Most men are not millionaires and, therefore, cannot supply a staff of servants; alas, most men cannot afford even one servant. The man who was wise enough to have married a good housekeeper is in luck in this day when servants are a rarity. When the cook walks out leaving a raw turkey to be taken care of, the wife who knows what to do with it will certainly reach new heights in her hungry husband's opinion. For the road to a man's heart is still through his stomach.

All of which reminds me of a statement made by a wealthy man at a recent party. His wife is glamorous, a talented musician, as well as an excellent cook and housekeeper. He can well afford servants and has had them throughout their ten years of marriage; but she confessed to me that he still admires a woman who, as he put it, "knows what to do with the groceries."

Question: Please tell me what my correct title is? I am divorced. My maiden name is, let us say, Mary Smith. My married name is Porter. I now sign my name Mary Smith Porter. In cases where the Mrs. is not known, should I place it in parenthesis, thus: (Mrs.) Mary Smith Porter?—M. S. P.

Answer: Legally and socially, a divorced woman may continue to use her husband's full name—in most states, at least.

Man women prefer, instead to use their maiden surname and their husband's surname, thus: Mrs. Smith Porter.

Should you prefer this latter idea, you should sign your name Mary Smith Porter and to those not knowing how to address you, place in parenthesis under your signature (Mrs. Smith Porter).

The banquet was over and the speaking had begun. His time-limit was 15 minutes. He passed it, and rambled through a second 15 minutes, his audience growing more and more restless. But he went on, and on, and on. The toastmaster tried every known method to make him stop—looked at and rattled a program, admonitory coughed, quietly pushed a watch in front of him, gently kicked his heel, and pulled his coattail, all without avail. Thinking that a tap on the seat of consciousness at the base of his skull would surely be hint enough, the toastmaster slid the gavel from the table, and, as invisibly as possible, raised it toward the back of the sweating orator's head. Just as the gavel was about to rap the speaker's medulla oblongata, the expirator of wind leaned forward to make a point, and the gavel came down on the shining dome of his neighbor. The neighbor's head dropped, and as his nose touched the tablecloth and he sank into unconsciousness, he clearly murmured, "Hit me again—I can still hear him!"

Congress Will Write Its Own Tax Bill
Treasury Program Appears Dead Issue
Induced Savings Are Likely To ResultBy HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Congress, irritated by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's new tax program aimed at the "white collar" workers, is going to tinker with a new tax program between now and Christmas. There is some speculation on Capitol Hill that congress may not pass a new tax bill at all, but at least it is going to try.

There is a real need for more revenue to help finance the war and combat inflation, most congressmen believe. The force as unpopular as higher taxes may be in the shadow of the 1944 political year, there is reasonably good prospect that congress will increase taxes to some extent—if, for no other reason, simply to save its face.

But—congress will write its own bill. It will not adopt the treasury program to increase income taxes in the middle income brackets 50 to 60 per cent and to raise an additional 10 billion, 560 million dollars of new revenue a year. That program is as good as dead, Washington tax experts agree.

The upshot of the present tax discussions undoubtedly will be a vindication of the Byrnes-Vinson viewpoint as contrasted with the treasury viewpoint. Both War Mobilizer Byrnes and Economic Stabilizer Vinson have argued in favor of trying to work with congressional tax leaders instead of throwing in their faces something they will have no part of.

Byrnes and Vinson favor some kind of forced or induced savings plan. There is "some chance" such a plan will be adopted.

When the history of World War II is written, the blunders made by the Japanese high command should be plentiful. The blunders, unless the Jap strategists tell on themselves, the world may never know how or why these mistakes were made. U. S. militarists haven't been able to figure out.

Why the Japs failed to take strategic points in the Hawaiian Islands after Pearl Harbor's sneak attack. The islands were vulnerable for several weeks after that time.

Why the Nips did not by-pass Wake Island and hit Midway earlier in the war before the strength of the garrison could be built up.

Why the Japanese Navy turned tail and made no effort to protect a troop convoy heading for Guadalcanal in November, 1942.

Why the enemy failed to invade India when British, American and Chinese forces were disorganized and poorly equipped following loss of Burma and Malaya.

Why the sons of heaven did not attack Soviet Russia during the period when the Russians were being pushed back by the Germans and it looked as though victory was within grasp of the Nazi hordes.

A Moscow announcement that slipped almost unnoticed through the American press was snatched up and avidly studied by Washington officials concerned with post-war negotiations with Russia. The Russian broadcast grimly asserted the Soviet Army just as responsible for the war and atrocities against Soviet citizens as are the Nazis.

The statement apparently dispelled rumors that the Soviets might conspire with German generals to get rid of Hitler and his gang. Since any announcement, verbal or printed, has to clear through the Soviet government censorship, a great weight was attached to the evident pledge of Stalin's adherence to this pivotal Anglo-American pledge.

Peace and post-war planners in Washington heaved a sigh of relief.

Senator Joseph O'Mahoney (D., Wyoming) discloses that congress, believe it or not, has produced some documents that belong in the "best seller" class. The subject, TNEC's exhaustive investigation of monopolies, monopolistic practices and related matters.

When it folded up in March, 1941, TNEC had published 84 documents—a veritable library on economics, O'Mahoney believes.

The payoff—O'Mahoney discovered that the government printing office has sold more than 200,000 copies of TNEC's documents and has realized from these sales about $80,000 in cash.

The World and the Mud Puddles

ONLY "SIX BILLION"

The president continues to show perfect indifference to the amount of money demanded from Congress. His latest outburst is a request for six billion dollars for Social Security so that the American citizen could be fully protected from his cradle to his grave. It is another exhibit of a desire to extend bureaucratic control of the American citizen and rob all citizens of their independence.

It has been the glory of this country that freedom of enterprise brought in its train wealth and prosperity to its citizens. The citizen was encouraged to improve his condition in life and he could best do that by finding means by which he could earn more money—either by becoming a better mechanic, a better salesman, a better employee, or, on the other hand, a more successful employer or a more successful adventurer in all fields of endeavor—a better doctor, a better lawyer, a better storekeeper, a better everything. He has learned also the advantages of the various forms of insurance from fire insurance on his home to life insurance upon himself and other members of his family. The American citizen more than any other individual in the world has learned to make a way for himself.

Now, the president plans to absolutely annihilate that individualism, to make the state responsible for the life and happiness of each individual. It seems as though the president was borrowing ideas from the vice president, Henry Wallace seems obsessed with socialistic and communistic ideas, of not only feeding and caring for the citizens of his own country, but going far afield asking for the citizens of the "whole world."

I am enough of an isolationist to say, "Let us, first as a people, retain our independence, retain our ideas of individualism, retain our ideas of the welfare of our fellow citizens and not worry about the social conditions of the rest of the world."

ASSURANCE FROM JONES

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE HESSE JONES has blueprinted a plan he conceives should be the lineup between government and industry after the war. Government should get out of active participation in industry as soon as it can and with as little loss as possible. A new period shall have been restored. Industry should be back upon the main war plants erected at public expense and engaged in driving to get them at low great expense to the taxpayer.

The Jones says that it seems, coming from an administration spokesman. It was an assurance that the administration of Jones, would move as quickly as possible after the war to restore the system of free enterprise. The speed and soundness with which this is accomplished will depend upon the cooperation that is extended by industry. This is the Jones viewpoint.

Dear Dr. Myers: I wonder if you could give me some advice that would help me in the following problem. My boy in the ninth grade is nearly fifteen. His teachers report that he turns in the best work of any boy in the school, but that he is slow. For instance, he is usually a unit behind at the end of the term. No matter what he does, he seems to be slower than all other nations combined. It will not be long until the debt of the United States will be larger than all other nations combined.

People who think too much of themselves do not think enough. "Loudness" The weak-minded speaker, with an unimpaired message, was doing his unsatisfying best. The banquet audience was large. After a few moments from his farthest edge came the cry "Leader!" The speaker stopped, swallowed, filled his lungs, and started again, trying hard to be "leader." But he couldn't and soon again came the demand from the rear, "Leader!" Whereupon a man in the fourth row from the front arose, turned his back to the speaker, and, addressing the rear of the hall, demanded, "Can't that man hear?" A stenographer "No!" from the complainant. "All right!" then think God that you can't and so home!"

It's nice for some of us to think of the good old world we had in the past. Will we ever have it again?

Life is just one everlasting struggle to keep money coming in and teeth and hair from falling out.

It is reported that bears in some places are going after dogs and killing them. They must also like fresh pork.

The lady was talking to her husband. He was urging her to go to the polls. "Bribery or not," declared the lady, "I tell you I won't vote unless you buy me a new hat to vote in."

Civilians are now promised more goods, but it may not be the kind they want.

The banquet was over and the speaking had begun. His time-limit was 15 minutes. He passed it, and rambled through a second 15 minutes, his audience growing more and more restless. But he went on, and on, and on. The toastmaster tried every known method to make him stop—looked at and rattled a program, admonitory coughed, quietly pushed a

THE WIFE WHO CAN KEEP HOUSE

Girls have been arguing for years that it is not necessary for them to learn domestic science. Almost every young girl dreams that she will have a doing husband, a beautiful home and a staff of efficient servants.

So why, then, does she worry about learning to cook and keep house? If she intends to be a career woman all her life she need not.

Most men are not millionaires and therefore cannot supply a staff of servants; alas, most men cannot afford even one servant. The man who was wise enough to have married a good housekeeper is in luck in this day when servants are a rarity. When the cook walks out leaving a raw turkey to be taken care of, the wife who knows what to do with it will certainly reach new heights in her husband's regard. For the road to a man's heart is still through his stomach.

All of which reminds me of a statement made by a wealthy man at a recent party. His wife is glamorous, a talented musician, as well as an excellent cook and housekeeper. He can well afford servants and has had them throughout their ten years of married life; but he confessed to me that he still admires a woman who, as he put it, "knows what to do with the groceries."

Question: Please tell me what my correct title is? I am divorced. My maiden name is, let us say, Mary Smith. My married name is, Porter. I now sign my name Mary Smith Porter. In cases where the Mrs. is not known, should I place it in parentheses, thus: (Mrs.) Mary Smith Porter—M. S. P.

Answer: Legally and socially, a divorced woman may continue to use her husband's full name—in most states, at least.

Man women prefer, instead to use their maiden surname and their husband's surname, thus: Mrs. Smith Porter.

Should you prefer this latter idea, you should sign your name Mary Smith Porter and to those not knowing how to address you, place it in parentheses under your signature (Mrs. Smith Porter).

Congress Will Write Its Own Tax Bill
 Treasury Program Appears Dead Issue
 Insured Savings Are Likely To Result

By HELEN ESSARY
 Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Congress, irritated by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's new tax program aimed at the "white collar" workers, is going to tinker with a new tax program between now and Christmas. There is some speculation on Capitol Hill that congress may not pass a new tax bill at all, but at least it is going to try.

There is a real need for more revenue to help finance the war and combat inflation, most congressmen believe. Therefore, as popular as higher taxes may be in the shadow of the 1944 political year, there is reasonably good prospect that congress will increase taxes to some extent—if, for no other reason, simply to save its face.

But—congress will write its own bill. It will not adopt the Treasury program to increase income taxes in the middle income brackets 50 to 60 per cent and to raise an additional 10 billion, 560 million dollars of new revenue a year. That program is as good as dead, Washington tax experts agree.

The upshot of the present tax discussions undoubtedly will be a vindication of the Byrnes-Vinson viewpoint as contrasted with the treasury viewpoint. Both War Mobilizer Byrnes and Economic Stabilizer Vinson have argued in favor of trying to work with congressional tax leaders instead of throwing in their faces something they will have no part of.

Byrnes and Vinson favor some kind of forced or induced savings plan. There is "some chance" such a plan will be adopted.

When the history of World War II is written, the blunders made by the Japanese high command should get plenty of space. However, unless the Jap strategists tell on themselves, the world may never know how or why these mistakes were made. U. S. militarists haven't been able to figure out.

Why the Japs failed to take strategic points in the Hawaiian Islands after Pearl Harbor's sneak attack. The islands were vulnerable for several weeks after that time.

Why the Japs did not bypass Wake Island and Midway earlier in the war before the strength of the garrison could be built up.

Why the Japanese Navy turned tail and made no effort to protect a troop convoy heading for Guadalcanal in November, 1942.

Why the enemy failed to invade India when British, American and Chinese forces were disorganized and poorly equipped following loss of Burma and Malaya.

Why the sons of heaven did not attack Soviet Russia during the period when the Russians were being pushed back by the Germans and it looked as though victory were within grasp of the Nazi horde.

A Moscow announcement that slipped almost unnoticed through the American press was snatched up and avidly studied by Washington officials concerned with post-war negotiations with Russia. The Russian broadcast grimly asserted the Soviets consider "the whole German Army just as responsible for the defeat and atrocities against Soviet citizens as the Nazis."

The statement, apparently dispelled rumors that the Soviets might conspire with German generals to get rid of Hitler and his gang. Since any announcement, verbal or printed, has to clear through rigid Soviet government censorship, great credit was attached to the evident pledge of Stalin's adherence to this pivotal Anglo-American pledge.

Peace and post-war planners in Washington heaved a sigh of relief.

Senator Joseph O'Mahoney (D., Wyoming) believes the congress has or not has produced some documents that belong in the "best seller" class. They were published by the Temporary National Economic Committee (TNEC) of which O'Mahoney was chairman, and cost about two million dollars to produce. The subject: TNEC's exhaustive investigation of monopolies, monopolistic practices and related matters.

When it folded up in March, 1941, TNEC had published 84 documents—a veritable library on economics, O'Mahoney believes.

The payoff—O'Mahoney discovered that the government printing office has sold more than 200,000 copies of TNEC's documents and has realized from these sales about $80,000 in cash.

Joe Hess of fountain pen fame is expecting Uncle Sam's call any day now. Due to his managing a bingo game on the Astor Park, N. J., boardwalk, while his wife, Betty, continues to work her magic to nice takes on the Ocean Grove Boardwalk.

Sounds nice, doesn't it? One great big family.

ONLY "SIX BILLION"

The president continues to show perfect indifference to the amount of money demanded from Congress. His latest outburst is a request for six billion dollars for Social Security so that the American citizen could be fully protected from his cradle to his grave. It is another exhibit of a desire to extend bureaucratic control of the American citizen and rob all citizens of their independence.

It has been the glory of this country brought in its train wealth and prosperity to its citizens. The citizen was encouraged to improve his condition in life and he could best do that by finding means by which he could earn more money—either by becoming a better mechanic, a better salesman, a better employer, or, on the other hand, a more successful employer, or a more successful adventurer in all fields of endeavor—a better doctor, a better lawyer, a better storekeeper, a better everything. He has learned also the advantages of the various forms of insurance from fire insurance on his home to life insurance upon himself and other members of his family. The American citizen more than any other individual in the world has learned to make a way for himself.

Now, the president plans to absolutely annihilate that individualism to make the state responsible for the life and happiness of each individual. It seems as though the president was borrowing ideas from the vice president, Henry Wallace seems obsessed with socialistic and communistic ideas, of not only feeding and caring for the citizens of his own country, but going far afield and looking after the citizens of the whole world.

I am enough of an isolationist to say, "Let us, first, as a people, retain our independence, retain our ideas of individualism and look after the welfare of our fellow citizens and not worry about the

WOULD LIMIT PRESIDENCY TO SIX-YEAR TERM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Sen. W. Lee (D) Tex. introduced a resolution in the senate Thursday calling for a constitutional amendment limiting the presidency and vice presidency to a single term of six years. He also proposed a six-year limitation for service either in the senate or the house.

A third provision would prohibit appointment to federal jobs of members of congress or federal judges until five years after they have left office.

The resolution specifically excepts President Roosevelt, Vice President Wallace and present members of congress from effect of the proposed amendment.

Forest Fires In East Widespread

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 15.—(INS)—Weary wardens and volunteers scanned the skies today for rain after battling widespread forest fires in Lackawanna county for two days.

Three stubborn fires raged on Bell Mountain, near Scranton, for hours before they were brought under control by several hundred fire fighters under District Forester Anton H. Vogler. The smoke could be seen for miles.

Forest fires also were reported in the Moose-Dupont area and near Childs, where more than 300 men and boys fought all night Wednesday before getting the upperhand. Flames crept to within 20 feet of three homes in Pleasant Valley before being checked. Another fire raged near Dickson City.

Scranton and borough firemen joined in combatting woodland blazes in some sections.

SENATE VOTES FOR PROBE OF TRANSPORTATION IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—The senate interstate commerce committee voted on Thursday to recommend a senate investigation of the transportation situation throughout the nation and another for investigation of international communication by wire and radio.

The first was proposed from a resolution by Sen. Langer (R) of N. D., who sought an inquiry into transportation shortage in the northwest, while the second was sponsored by Sens. Wheeler (D) of Mont., and White (R) of Maine.

THIRD JURIST DIES IN WEEK

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Members of the bar and bench today mourned the death of Common Pleas Judge H. Smith, the third Allegheny county jurist to die within the past week.

Born in old Allegheny in 1899, Judge Smith was a veteran of World War I, a graduate of Cornell University and the University of Pittsburgh Law School.

He was preceded in death this week by Judge H. Walton Mitchell, of orphan's court, and Judge Andrew T. Park, of common pleas court.

STATE OFFICIAL IMPROVES

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15.—(INS)—The condition of Pennsylvania Attorney General James H. Duff was reported as "good" today by attaches of Mercy hospital in Pittsburgh. He recently underwent an operation for the removal of his tonsils.

BOOTLEG MINING WILL BE HALTED

HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Bootleg coal miners were abruptly told today by the state anthracite committee that they must cease operations by November 30 or face charges of trespassing or theft.

The committee's announcement came after ten two-month extensions were granted "bootleg leaders" to permit the miners to find other employment. Since March 1942 the committee has been cooperating with hard coal operators in a program designed to absorb bootleg miners into the legitimate industry and close illegal coal holes. Approximately 2,800 miners now work bootleg coal holes as compared with more than 11,000 when the war began.

All coffee looks good in the package, but it's scandalous how some of it acts when you put it to work.

It sulk and stumbles around, gets you all steamed up with pleasant anticipation, then boils down to a weak insipid concoction, that hardly deserves to be called coffee.

Makes you madder in a wet hen. It ought to be arrested for disorderly conduct.

Maybe your coffee doesn't act that way. Or does it? further strain on diplomatic relations between the United States and the South American nation.

Mr. Roosevelt, at his news conference, bluntly accused the Argentine government of violating a pact adopted by all the American states at the Inter-American conference at Lima, Peru, in 1938.

Arouses Apprehension

The Argentine action, he asserted, arouses apprehension in the United States at an act which he described as being "so closely identified with the most repugnant features of Nazi doctrine."

"I have been informed," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that the Argentine government has suspended the publication of Jewish newspapers, some of which have been in existence for many years."

"While this matter is, of course, one which concerns primarily the Argentine government and people, I cannot forbear to give expression to my own feeling of apprehension in the taking in this atmosphere of action obviously anti-Semitic in nature and of a character so closely identified with the most repugnant features of Nazi doctrine."

"I believe that this feeling is shared by the people of the United States and by the people of the other American republics."

In this connection I recall that one of the resolutions adopted at the eighth international conference of American states in Lima in 1938 set forth that "any persecution on account of racial or religious motives which makes it impossible for a group of human beings to live decently, is contrary to the political and juridical systems of America."

Argentina's action in suspending publication of the Jewish newspapers came just a few days after the Buenos Aires government had recalled its ambassador, Felipe Espil, who had been envoy to Washington for many years and who was well known to be pro-American in his outlook.

WINTER CROPS

CORVALLIS, Ore.—(INS)—Oregon winter wheat growers have been requested by agriculture authorities to reserve at least enough land to maintain plantings of dry peas, dry beans, potatoes, canning crops and feed crops at this year's high levels.

R. B. Taylor, chairman of the state U.S.D.A. war board, said these crops will be given preference over wheat even though an increase in wheat will be sought.

Victory Garden Carrot Lures Runaway Deer

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO—Armed with a flashlight and a freshly plucked carrot from a nearby victory garden, Officer Charles Murray of San Francisco played Frank Buck to three deer and "brought 'em back alive."

When numerous calls to police stations announced the deer had jumped the fence of their pen in Golden Gate Park, Officer Murray went into action.

He coaxed them to him with his victory garden carrot, then succeeded in getting them back over the fence by flashing the flashlight toward the pen.

PACIFIC STRATEGY GETTING RESULTS

Admiralty Islands, the Island of New Ireland, and Bougainville and Choiseul in the Northern Solomons. When that is accomplished, the Japanese will be eliminated from all islands off the northeastern and eastern shore of Australia. That in itself permanently removes the threat of invasion to the "Land Down Under" from those locations.

To accomplish his smashing air victory, we are told that General MacArthur pressed into service every available plane in his Southwest Pacific area. In all, 350 tons of bombs were dropped on the target. Rabaul is a concentrated target and 350 tons concentrated on a small area should almost blast it out of existence.

It is amazing that an Allied air raid of such magnitude could catch the Japanese by surprise. In some unaccountable manner, General MacArthur's air force has been able to repeat surprise attacks.

It is probable that, before the final land, sea and air assault against New Britain and Rabaul, General MacArthur wishes to surround that island with land-based fighter planes which are within effective striking range. He is already within that range of Finchhafen and also on the Trobriand Islands and the island of Woodlark.

LT. SCHWEIKERT WRITES FAMILY

my life, but everyone came through O. K. There were shells and tracers going everywhere. I tried to sleep when I came back, but I guess I'll have to wait until tonight. I just can't go to sleep. Anyhow, the Japs can count one less destroyer in their fleet."

Lt. Schweikert has been in the service since February 23, 1942, when he enlisted as an air cadet. After completing his training he was sent to the south Pacific area as bomber pilot, where he has been since February of this year. He has completed many successful missions against the enemy.

Visibility Bad

Lt. Schweikert stated that they took off at 1:05 a. m. on the morning of September 19, in search of Japanese shipping in Shortland Harbor. The weather was poor and visibility bad. They were attempting to hit Choiseul Island, in the northern part of the Solomons, but after coming out into the clear the navigator finally determined they were lost. Knowing they were lost, they dumped their bomb load to conserve fuel.

At six a. m. they sighted Rennell Island and circled it. They saw a number of natives along the shores of an inland lake, and being low in fuel decided to make a crash landing in the water. Lt. Schweikert instructed the gunner and radio man to jump, which they did. S. Sgt. Jones, the gunner, landed on the shores of the lake, but S. Sgt. Waite, the radio man, landed a mile from shore in the jungle.

When the plane hit the water, it skidded 200 yards, then the nose went under, and water gushed thru the pilot's compartment. He had instructed his co-pilot to open the hatch overhead, but water poured in through it, but fortunately the nose of the plane then came up, and the water drained out. Lt. Schweikert got out on the nose of the plane and pulled out the parachutes and equipment which the navigator handed up. Then as the ship was settling fast, they boarded the rubber boat and pulled away. The natives came out in outrigger canoes and helped them to shore.

Search for Sgt. Waite

Sgt. Waite was not there when they arrived and searching parties were sent out to hunt for him. The island chief, named Taupou, gave the stranded flyers every help he could, and through a boy named Samuella, who spoke English, their wants were made known. The chief took them to his village about a mile up the lagoon and gave them his hut to sleep in. They slept on bamboo slats about three feet off the ground for beds, but were unable to rest well. The next day searching parties were headed by Lt. Schweikert, Lt. Mattox and Lt. Kallman. It soon started to rain and the search had to be given up that day. The jungles were so thick machetes had to be used to cut their way through it.

They were able to sleep better the second night. The natives dove down into the water and brought up a machine gun and ammunition. On the morning of the fourth day Sgt. Waite was able to make his way to the edge of the lake and join them. The parachutes were spread out on the ground so that planes flying overhead might sight them. It was found that Waite was all right except for a cut over his left eye. That night the crew sang songs with the natives. They had a Bible and several song books, containing such songs as "Onward Christian Soldiers," "God Save Our King" and several other holy songs. Two of the natives had been taught to speak English very well by missionaries.

On the morning of the sixth day a native came in with their radio. How he was able to get it out of the plane, Lt. Schweikert never found out. Everybody felt like shouting and did, he relates. The radio was set up with its balloon and antenna and they started sending SOS messages. That afternoon a bushing on the radio swelled up and locked the handle making it useless. It was taken apart and fixed, and messages were again cranked out. Planes could be seen passing overhead at a height of 10,000 feet in the clouds, but they did not observe the stranded flyers on the ground below.

On the eighth day, a PBV came in and three flares were fired. The crew saw them and came down and landed on the water. Lt. Schweikert and his men got their stuff together along with some souvenirs from the natives, and headed for home in the PBV.

Lieut. Schweikert made a report of his observations gained from his experience on the island to his commanding officer for the benefit of other crews who might suffer the same experience.

When the plane hit the water, it skidded 200 yards, then the nose went under, and was pushed thru the water's surface. Lt. Schweikert instructed his co-pilot to open the hatch overhead, but water poured in through it, but fortunately, the nose of the plane then came up, and the water drained out. Lt. Schweikert got out on the nose of the plane and pulled out the parachutes and equipment with the navigator handed up. Then as the ship was settling fast, they boarded the rubber boat and pulled away. The natives came out in outrigger canoes and helped them to shore.

Search for Sgt. Waite

Sgt. Waite was not there when they arrived and searching parties were sent out to hunt for him. The island chief, named Taupou, gave the stranded flyers every help he could, and through a boy named Samuella, who spoke English, their wants were made known. The chief took them to his village about a mile up the lagoon and gave them his hut to sleep in. They slept on bamboo slats about three feet off the ground for beds, but were unable to rest well. The next day, searching parties were headed by Lt. Schweikert, Lt. Mattox and Lt. Kallman. It soon started to rain and the search had to be given up that day. The jungles were so thick machetes had to be used to cut their way through it.

They were able to sleep better the second night. The natives dove down into the water and brought up a machine gun and ammunition. On the morning of the fourth day Sgt. Waite was able to make his way to the edge of the lake and join them. The parachutes were spread out on the ground so that planes flying overhead might sight them. It was found that Waite was all right except for a cut over his left eye. That night the crew sang songs with the natives. They had a Bible and several song books, containing such songs as "Onward Christian Soldiers," "God Save Our King" and several other holy songs. Two of the natives had been taught to speak English very well by missionaries.

On the morning of the sixth day a native came in with their radio. How he was able to get it out of the plane, Lt. Schweikert never found out. Everybody felt the shouting and did, he related. The radio was set up with its balloon and antenna and they started sending SOS messages. That afternoon, a bushing on the radio swelled up and locked the handle making it useless. It was taken apart and fixed, and messages were again cranked out. Planes could be seen passing overhead at a height of 10,000 feet in the clouds, but they did not observe the stranded flyers on the ground below.

On the eighth day, a PBY came in and three flares were fired. The crew saw them and came down and landed on the water. Lt. Schweikert and his men got their stuff together along with some weapons from the natives, and headed for home in the PBY.

Lieut. Schweikert made a report of his observations gained from his experience on the island to his commanding officer for the benefit of other crews who might suffer the same experience.

"NITTANY LION" LIFELESS STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 15.—(INS)—The "Nittany Lion" mascot of Pennsylvania State college was only a lifeless pelt today, suffering from a bad case of manpower shortage.

A long search for candidates to fill the skin has failed to produce an adequate "Lion."

Kaiser's ship-building achievement is unique. Think of putting over anything that big without the help of Kate Smith.

"WHERE'S THE FIRE?" (International News Service) FISHKILL, N. Y.—Francis Poutre, a driver for the Mack Engine Co., of Allentown, Pa., was stopped by a New York State trooper who stopped him on the Albany Post road and asked: "Where's the fire?" Poutre, delivering a new engine to the Hudson, N. Y. Fire department, admitted there was no fire. A justice of the peace fined him $15. The trooper said Poutre was speeding, siren wide open, forcing other vehicles to the roadside.

Trainees At Vocational School Here Are Eligible For Whole Or Part-Time Employment

Not only part-time vocational training but part-time as well as full-time employment by local industry will soon become an actuality here now that several local employers have indicated to the United States Employment Service office of the War Manpower Commission a willingness to employ as part-time workers those who have availed themselves of the training available at the Lutton street vocational school. Mrs. Wilda K. Patterson, of the U. S. E. S. office, said today.

Recent announcement that several hours a day training was available at the school resulted in the enrollment of a large number of new trainees, according to Earl M. Cass, director of the school. There are now only a few openings on two of the three shifts he said.

According to the employment office, one local retail merchant is rearranging the schedule of his sales force so that employees who wish to can take advantage of vocational training.

It is free, there is no enrollment fee or cost for books. Also the course is open to both men and women and it is possible to enroll for part-time training of only two hours a night any number of days a week.

A 60-page booklet issued by the Nazis in Poland contains only the titles of Polish authors' books that are prohibited reading.

Senior High Groups Help With Rationing

Forty-four girls from the Business Proficiency club of the senior high school, under the leadership of Cecile Katz, president of the club, worked Thursday for two hours after school at the ration board office helping with the clerical work connected with issuing new gas ration books, according to announcement today from the senior high school. They will donate their services again today.

GACs of the high school will take over on Saturday for a week of volunteer work two hours a day.

Girl Reserves under the leadership of Miss Grace Dodson, faculty supervisor, are organizing a team to work at the ration office after school hours starting October 23, said today.

Report Says Nazis Evacuating Kiev

(BULLETIN) NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(INS)—The Finnish radio, quoting a Berlin dispatch said today that the Germans are evacuating Kiev. The broadcast was heard by the U. S. foreign broadcast intelligence service.

Joseph W. Shepherd and wife to Merle Mitchell and wife, Neshannock township, $1.

COMPROMISE CASE

Before the case was finished, a compromise was effected in the suit brought by Lucille H. Mattern against Anne Subasic McKay in which the defendant gets $1250. The suit arose out of an automobile accident near Montpelier, Idaho in July 1941, when the plaintiff was a passenger in the car of the defendant.

In court room number one the case of Andrew C. Carlson, Jr. versus William G. Carlson was called. It is charged that a farm of the plaintiff's in Shenango township was sold by the sheriff and later, Carlson claims to have induced W. G. Carlson to buy the farm as an investment. According to the pleadings, Carlson induced Carlson to buy it with the understanding that if he ever sold it, at a profit, he was to return to Carlson the difference between the purchase price plus interest and the sale price. He sues for the difference.

In court room number two the case of M. J. Scanlon against the City of New Castle came to trial Thursday morning. Mr. Scanlon claims the city condemned a piece of his property on Montgomery avenue and has refused to reimburse him to the amount of his damage.

DIVORCE FINAL

In an opinion handed down Thursday, Judge John G. Lamoree refused to set aside a divorce granted Albert E. Gettings from his wife, Gladys S. Gettings. In the original hearing Mr. Gettings alleged desertion and a divorce was decreed. Mrs. Gettings took exception to the decree and asked that it be set aside and the case reopened. Judge Lamoree reviewed the case at length and refused the motion.

CANDIDATES' EXPENSES

Additional expense accounts of candidates filed before Thursday noon include the following: Dr. T. F. Nugent, candidate for the Republican nomination for coroner, $143.73; B. N. Hanlon, candidate for the Republican nomination for city treasurer, $641.33; and Andrew Fair, candidate for the Republican nomination for constable in the first ward, less than $50.

CATHOLIC SODALITY TO SPONSOR LECTURE

On Sunday afternoon, October 17, at 3 p. m., an illustrated lecture on "Sacrifice of the Mass," will be shown in the Catholic Center, North Beaver street, sponsored by the St. Mary's Sodality. Rev. Fr. Edwin R. Heyl, of St. Francis Xavier parish, Pittsburgh, will conduct and explain the showing, which promises to be very interesting.

Missionary Union 'Community Day' Set For Nov. 11

Women's Missionary Union with representatives from the majority of churches in this vicinity present, outlined plans at the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday for "World Community Day" to be observed November 11. Enthusiasm was registered by those in attendance, and it was decided the event will be held in the First Christian church on the Diamond at 1:30 o'clock, on the date set. Mrs. Kenneth Lutz was in charge. The theme will be "The Price of an Enduring Peace."

Kiwanis Club In Charge Of Program At Deshon Hospital

Please Wounded Men At Army Hospital With Entertainment Thursday Night

Under the auspices of the New Castle Kiwanis club, a splendid program of entertainment was presented at the Deshon hospital Thursday evening. The program was one in the series being presented each month through the interest of the Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion.

Emil Lelenko served as master-of-ceremonies, and in addition gave the boys a treat with his own impersonations of famous characters for which he is noted. He made a big hit with the wounded men who are recuperating at the Butler institution.

The Schubert Sextette, well-known group of lady singers of this city, presented several numbers which were enthusiastically received, and Old King Cole (DeLace) and his housewife orchestra also made a hit with the boys. The Gay Nineties quartet, composed of Bill Williams, Arthur Harris, David Rees and Leonard Kisthart, gave a group of quartet numbers, and James A. Bowman sang several numbers. The accompanists were Mrs. Richard K. Allen and Ernel Branstetter. The entire program was outstanding and the boys were well pleased with it.

Officers of the Kiwanis club and the American Legion accompanied the entertainers.

Chairman A. Lewis Conn of the Perry S. Gaston Post, has made arrangements for a big Christmas program to be given on the night of December 23.

WOMEN GET ESCORTS
PHILADELPHIA.—(INS)—The old cry of "lady, there's a man following," has taken on a new meaning in the Quaker City, since auxiliary policemen and air raid wardens have undertaken the job of escorting feminine war workers to their homes at night. From sundown until midnight, and sometimes later, these uniformed volunteers patrol their neighborhoods, meeting trains, trolleys and buses, and seeing that women who work late get home safely.

More beer is consumed in the United States now than before the prohibition era.

Auditor General Ross In Attack On 1943 Rippers

HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Auditor Gen. F. Clair Ross today petitioned the Dauphin county commonwealth court to declare unconstitutional the 1943 Ripper bills transferring the state inheritance tax division from the auditor general's department to the state department of revenue.

The action was joined by Berks county register of Wills Chester R. Giger in answer to a court request by Attorney General James H. Duff that the auditor general be compelled to approve pay vouchers for new appointees in the inheritance tax division, now administered by secretary of revenue David W. Harris, Republican.

The Democratic fiscal officer was accused by Duff of arbitrarily withholding the pay of Charles Marks, of Reading, recently-appointed inheritance tax appraiser in Berks county.

The validity of the Ripper bills was previously raised in a suit of a number of old employees who sought to be retained in their jobs until the expiration of Ross' term of office. The question is now pending in the state supreme court on an appeal from the decision of Dauphin County Judge J. Paul Rupp who held the Ripper bills constitutional.

CHILDREN'S DISEASE

Measles, mumps, whooping cough and chickenpox are usually considered inevitable.

People seem to think that children are supposed to have them sooner or later.

Our means of protection from these diseases have never been very good.

Perhaps a good way is to try to keep babies and young children away from exposure as long as possible. These diseases seem to be more serious in babies than in older children.

If the child does not get the disease till about school age he probably stands a better chance of getting well again.

An epidemic of infantile paralysis causes a lot of excitement but these so called mild diseases kill and damage many more children than paralysis does.

MEN'S BROTHERHOOD

The Reverend Einar Lehto, pastor of the Finnish Lutheran church of New Castle, will address the Men's Community Brotherhood of Bessemer at their monthly dinner meeting on Monday, October 18.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:00 P. M. The Brotherhood is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization. All service men of the community, either home on furlough or about to be inducted, are invited to attend as honored guests.

NOTHING NEW

EUGENE, Ore.—(INS)—Community farming, highlighted in the news these war days, is nothing new to the seven Robertson brothers. They have owned and operated the 480-acre 7-R ranch near Eugene together for over nine years.

Each of the brothers has a seventh share in the property, and each has his own summer home, set apart from the others although there are no boundaries or fences.

CHARGE 25,000 RUSSIANS SHOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(INS)—The British radio today quoted refugees from Kiev as asserting that 25,000 Russians in a nearby concentration camp were shot and the 5,000 remaining were deported as German terror swept to new heights.

"Wells in the entire city are filled with bodies of murdered women and children," the broadcast added.

"A scaffold is erected on the main street of Kiev and the famous city canal is filled to the brim with thousands of execution victims."

CBS recorded the transmission.

MISERY FROM ACHES AND PAINS

Mrs. John O'Neill, Of 223+ Smithfield St., New Castle, Pa., Was Always Tired, Nervous And Tortured By Lack Of Sleep; Her System Upset. Found Blessed Relief With Herba-Lex, She Says.

MRS. JOHN O'NEILL

What is this wonder medicine Herba-Lex? It's medicine as old as time, yet new as today. Herba-Lex contains the natural juices of 18 herbs, roots and barks which have benefitted suffering mankind for ages, and so compounded as to give amazing relief to sufferers from distress of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Mrs. O'Neill tells here what Herba-Lex did for her. Read every word of her remarkable statement.

"I Was Completely Worn Out"

"I was tired and nervous at all times. I had trouble sleeping at night. All my energy was gone, and my entire system seemed out of order. My face used to break out in red spots. The pleasure of living faded away. I was in a terrible state, completely worn out. Then my friends advised me to take Herba-Lex. After taking one small bottle, I now go to bed at night and sleep like a baby. My nerves are quiet, my face has cleared up, and though I am 73 years old I feel like a much younger person."

Contains 18 Ingredients

Herba-Lex is a new, scientific formula of juices from 18 of Nature's most health-giving herbs which mix with your food and help eliminate gases and impurities which may have been in your system a long time, promoting indigestion, sourness, gas pains, liver torpidity, sluggish kidney action, bladder irritation and weakness.

Herba-Lex acts quickly to stop gas pains and belching. It works pleasantly in urging greater liver activity and elimination, helping to overcome that sallow, muddy complexion, and to improve your digestion. It aids sluggish kidneys to better action by washing out quantities of impurities thus helping relieve muscular aches and pains. And finally, Herba-Lex helps to tone up the system generally so that you feel, look, and act healthy.

Why keep on suffering when the "natural" drugless medicine, Herba-Lex, offers you hope of relief? Stop in today and get a bottle. See if that one bottle doesn't convince you that Herba-Lex is the medicine you need to make you feel like your self again!

UNIVERSITY OF NAPLES BURNED BY NAZI TROOPS

Nazi Vandalism Revealed As Having Destroyed Historical Treasure

By PIERRE J. HUSS (U.S. Staff Correspondent)

ALGIERS, Oct. 15.—Nazi vandalism has robbed the world of another great historical treasure in medieval documents and has added to its list of smoking victims the University of Naples, third oldest institution of its kind in Europe.

For three days in September, German troops held Neapolitan firemen at a distance as flames rose from classrooms and libraries of that institution destroying some 200,000 precious volumes dating back to the middle ages.

"After such a crime no German will dare to come to this city for a century," said outraged Neapolitans as they looked at the blackened walls and classrooms from which graduated immortals like St. Thomas Aquinas.

Specially the Germans looted their vengeance on the lower library of the university and at classrooms and archives by destroying in the same manner the adjoining libraries of the Royal Society, one of the oldest and most respected institutions of learning in Italy. In both instances the Germans poured gasoline on the furniture and the rows of volumes and then threw hand grenades into the rooms to set them ablaze.

The threebare pretext used by the Nazis was that an Italian guerrilla in civilian clothes on Sept. 19 had shot and killed a German soldier in front of the university. The following day the Germans rounded up some 300 men, women and children from buildings adjoining the university and shot one man at random. Then they set the fires.

The facts as given here were brought back from Naples by Americans who received the full facts from the rector of the university and from scores of responsible Italians who witnessed this vandalism. The grim tales differed strikingly little from previous German acts of the same kind, notably on the burning and sacking in 1940 of the university and famed library of Louvain.

The sacking and burning of Naples is merely added proof that Hitler has given orders to carry out his threat of years ago that ruin and misery will mark his trail throughout Europe before he goes down.

STIMSON REVEALS PROBE OF COURT MARTIAL IS ON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Secretary of War Stimson disclosed Thursday that the investigation into the court martial of Lieut. Col. William Colman of Selfridge Field, Mich., is underway and that Colman has appeared before the special trial board.

He emphasized that the proceedings have not yet been completed. Colman was demoted to the rank of captain after the recent court martial during which he faced many charges, including that of shooting an enlisted man.

CHILE MAY BREAK WITH JAPAN SOON

SANTIAGO, Oct. 15.—(INS)—An influential Chilean foreign newspaper, owned by a former foreign minister, predicted today that the Argentine government will break relations with Japan this week.

The paper, the Daily Opinion owned by ex-Foreign Minister Juan Rossetti, declared: "The Chilean foreign affairs department has been advised that the Argentine government has decided to break relations with Japan. The rupture should have taken place three days ago but was postponed, due to not revealed circumstances."

The paper declared that additional information shows that the Chilean government "knows" the rupture will take place this week.

MRS. CHURCHILL TELLS ABOUT IT

Gives Description Of President Roosevelt's Relations With Congress

By DIXIE TIGHE (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A description of President Roosevelt's relations with congress which probably the American leader himself would have enjoyed hearing had he been present was given Thursday by Mrs. Winston Churchill at the first news conference she has ever held in Britain.

Attending the first luncheon of the newly-formed Women's Press Club of London as guest of honor, she wound up by being extensively interviewed.

It was while she was explaining to English women reporters why her husband, unlike President Roosevelt, does not hold news conferences, that Mrs. Churchill simplified American history and tradition with these words:

"In America the president does not have direct contact with congress. They talk it over and send him messages. Sometimes they are nice; sometimes they are not. Only about once a year does he meet with them and then it's a terrific affair, often ending up in a bit of a row."

HUGE SHIPMENT OF VEGETABLES ARRIVES PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—(INS)—

Quaker City residents today were assured of fresh vegetables for their dinner tables when one of the largest mass shipments of fresh vegetables in recent months arrived for Philadelphia markets.

Tomatoes, potatoes, apples and cabbage were included in the 480-car shipment, a spokesman for the U. S. marketing service announced.

Postwar Air Transport Outlook Is Favorable

By ROGER W. BABSON

(Copyright, 1943, Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15.—Anyone who has visited a large modern airport or terminal such as the one here in Washington cannot help but be impressed with the great progress being made in aviation. Planes, airports and terminal facilities are all relatively new and clean. They appear greatly to the aesthetic senses. The efficiency and the courtesy of all ranks of employees, even when laboring with the difficulties of war-time operations, is impressive. As a result of the war, hundreds of thousands of men and women have been introduced to air transport. Their enthusiasm for this entire industry—still in its childhood—forecasts an expansion which will make the past age of railroading look sick.

Manufacturing vs Transport Companies

I had much rather own the stocks of the air transport companies than those of the companies which manufacture airplanes. The basic reason for this is that the air transport companies are primarily distributors and merchandisers of a highly efficient and convenient form of transportation. They are much like the chain store, on which I am also bullish in that they have no problems concerning fixed charges, production contracts or labor. The air transport companies will be carrying passengers and freight regardless of the ups and downs of the airplane manufacturing companies.

Of course, work will not stop abruptly at the end of the war in the case of manufacturing companies. Larger and tougher bombing planes and faster pursuit and flight planes will continue to be built. There will also be some reconverting work in changing over present bombers to freight and passenger planes. There has not as yet been any cancellation of plane contracts such as we have seen in the machine tool industry. But these are bound to come ultimately, although an attempt will be made to employ as many people in the manufacturing companies as possible. Taxes are also a much greater handicap to these concerns than to the air transport companies. On the other hand, the low market price of these manufacturing company stocks may have discounted much of this grief.

Growth Possibilities

Passengers desiring to use commercial air lines greatly now exceed present capacity. If it were not for lack of equipment, passenger air mileage would now be at least double that of a year ago. On many lines, express and air mail poundage have doubled; but while the war lasts not much growth can be expected in passenger service. However, with the war lid off, I expect to see planes still booked to capacity even though more equipment will then be available. Equipment of all kinds, however, as well as pilots and operating personnel will be plentiful. The availability of these should help operating costs even though taxes remain heavy. The air lines have, perhaps, the most progressive managements of any industry. They are learning much from war-time transportation problems. Incidentally, they are contributing much to the successful conduct of the war. Of the future position in world transport of our air lines, there can be no doubt. This is witnessed by the inauguration of daily transatlantic cargo flights, and by the application on file for transatlantic routes in exchange for "lend lease" and other Allied aid we may ultimately secure permanent air bases in the West Indies, the Pacific and elsewhere. Ostensibly these will be for our defense, but actually they will be used for commercial purposes on a rental basis by our airlines.

Economic Advantages

The history of transportation shows that from its earliest stages some "roadbed" had to be provided for besides equipment. For example, barges require flat canals or dug; railroads require roadbeds and bridges; while automobiles require fine highways. For air travel no such expensive outlays are necessary. The construction of airports and terminals, aside from equipment, is the only "use" expense to which air lines are put. Usually they bear only a portion of this cost. Certainly, after the war, they will secure the use of many fields and terminal facilities without much expense involved.

The airplane has already given us greater speed than any mode of transportation that preceded it. It is our most efficient unit of travel; yet its perfection is still in its infancy. Certainly, in the near future, the convenience, safety, comfort and flexibility of air transport will improve greatly. The fact that planes move in the free medium of the air is a basic economic advantage not often considered. My bet is that air transport will expand far more rapidly than did the railroads and the traction, and this will be accomplished at far less proportional expense. While the transport stocks have had a steep market rise, there is little question as to their basic soundness and future popularity. Events are very favorable for the entire air transport industry. I advise hanging on to the stocks of the four largest companies provided one properly diversifies and distributes his investment among these four. These few companies handle 81 per cent of the air transport business. To get a similar large interest and proper diversification in railroad transportation an investor would be obliged to purchase stocks in nearly 100 separate roads.

BOY SCOUTS

At the second meeting of Girl Scouts of Troop 1 plans were discussed for a bike hike and a dance. The hike will aid the girls in passing the cyclist badge. The dance is scheduled for a social event. The girls also learned how to fix a bike tire. Charlene Vogan and Pat Bilzi were instructors.

Red Cross Clubs In North Africa Do A Lot, Soldier Tells

Received V-mail from Lieut. John W. Post, in North Africa, by Dr. J. W. Post of 203 East Garfield avenue, has come a letter that gives first hand information of what the Red Cross clubs are doing in battle areas for the men in our armed forces.

The letter, a copy of which was released today at the local Red Cross chapter office, reads:

I take it that by now you have received my cable and perhaps my first letter. I recommend that you use V mail as we get about 10-day service. Some letters have come thru in even less time.

This North Africa is a funny place, first hot and dry with lots of dust storms and then rain and ankle deep mud. We are doing o. k. though and the food is all right. What we do miss though are fresh fruits and vegetables and milk etc. The army uses little if any of the local produce.

More about the Red Cross—they have provided in a nearby city an officers' club and an enlisted men's club. Here they provide good eats and showers, dances, etc., all at little or no cost to us. They even have ice cream at 2 o'clock each day as long as it lasts. The Red Cross is certainly appreciated by everyone over here. More dollars over there would help to show our appreciation.

Prepare To Start Trial Of Count

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Nassau seethed with excitement today as preparations proceeded for the trial of Count Al-fred De Marigny, opening Monday. Nancy Oakes De Marigny, accompanied by private defense investigator Raymond Schindler, arrived by plane from Miami for the trial. Nancy said she is standing by her husband, who is charged with the murder of his father-in-law, multi-millionaire Sir Harry Oakes. Indications are that the trial probably will last three weeks.

De Marigny is accused of battering to death the wealthy Nassau resident, whose body was found in bed at his palatial residence. The bedclothes had been set afire, but the flames had been quelled by a nearby electric fan.

There are more persons by the name of Smith in the United States and England than any other.

Post No. 315, V.F.W. Sells Record Of War Bonds, Stamps

Neshannock Post No. 315 of the V. F. W. recently held a dinner party as a jubilant climax to their campaign of selling war bonds and stamps at a special booth in the G. C. Murphy store on East Washington street.

The guest list numbered 45, and festivities took place at a prominent dining room downtown. Special guests included William Voorhis, manager of Murphy's, and his wife, Miss Mary Quinn and Miss Agnes McConnell, also of the G. C. Murphy Co.

Frank G. Sargent, who is serving as co-ordinator of civilian defense, was also present. He made a short address, and Mr. Voorhis was called upon for a few remarks. Both commended the group of women who have given their time and support to this project.

Since last August, the Neshannock Post No. 315, V. F. W., has sold a total of $37,708.20 in war bonds and war stamps.

The same organization will continue with their selling program at the same headquarters.

Postwar Air Transport Outlook Is Favorable

By ROGER W. HANSON

(Copyright, 1943, Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15.—Anyone who has visited a large modern airport or terminal such as the one here in Washington cannot help but be impressed with the great progress being made in aviation.

Planes, airports and terminal facilities are all relatively new and clean. They appeal greatly to the aesthetic senses. The efficiency and the courtesy of all ranks of employees, even when laboring with the difficulties of war-time operations, is impressive. As a result of the war, hundreds of thousands of men and women have been introduced to air transport. Their enthusiasm for this entire industry—still in its childhood—forecasts an expansion which will make the past age of railroading look sick.

Manufacturing of Transport Companies
I had much rather own the stocks of the air transport companies than those of the companies which manufacture airplanes. The basic reason for this is that the air transport companies are primarily distributors and merchandisers of a highly efficient and convenient form of transportation. They are more like the chain store, on which I am also bullish in that they have no problems concerning fixed charges, production contracts or labor. The air transport companies will be carrying passengers and freight regardless of the ups and downs of the airplane manufacturing companies.

Of course, work will not stop abruptly at the end of the war in the case of manufacturing companies. Larger and tougher bombing planes and faster pursuit and flight planes will continue to be built. There will also be some reconverting work in changing over present bombers to freight and passenger planes. There has not as yet been any cancellation of plane contracts such as we have seen in the machine tool industry. But these are bound to come ultimately, although an attempt will be made to employ as many people in the manufacturing companies as possible. Taxes also much concern the air transport companies. On the other hand, the low market price of these manufacturing company stocks may have discounted much of this grief.

Growth Possibilities
Passengers desiring to use commercial air lines greatly exceed present capacity. If it were not for lack of equipment, passenger air mileage would now be at least double that of a year ago. On many lines, express and air mail poundage have doubled; but while the war lasts not much growth can be expected in passenger service. However, with the war line off, I expect sea planes will be booked to capacity even though more equipment will then be available. Equipment of all kinds, however, as well as pilots and operating personnel, will be plentiful. The availability of these should help operating costs even though taxes remain heavy. The air lines have, perhaps, the most progressive managements of any industry. They are learning much from war-time transportation problems. Incidentally, they are contributing much to the successful conduct of the war. Of the future position in world transport of our air lines, there can be no doubt. This is witnessed by the inauguration of daily transcontinental all-cargo flights, and by the applications on file for transatlantic routes in exchange for "lend lease" and other Allied aid we may ultimately secure permanent air bases in the West Indies, the Pacific and elsewhere. Obviously these will be for our defense, but actually they will be used for commercial purposes on a rental basis by our airlines.

Economic Advantages
The history of transportation shows that from its earliest stages some "roadbed" had to be provided for besides equipment. For example, bridges require that canals and railroads require roadbeds and bridges; while automobiles require fine highways. For air travel no such expensive outlays are necessary. The construction of airports and terminals, aside from equipment, is the only "use" expense to which air lines are put. Usually they are only a portion of the cost. Certainly after the war, they will secure the use of many fields and terminal facilities without much expense involved.

The airplane has already given us greater speed than any mode of transportation that preceded it. It is our most efficient unit of travel, yet its perfection is still in its infancy. Certainly, in the near future, the convenience, safety, comfort and flexibility of air transport will improve greatly. The fact that planes move in the free medium of the air is a basic economic advantage not often considered. My bet is that air transport will expand far more rapidly than did the railroads and the tractions and this will be accomplished at far less proportional expense. While the transport stocks have had a steep market rise, there is little question as to their basic soundness and future popularity. Events are very favorable for the entire air transport industry. I advise buying on to the stock of the four largest companies provided one properly diversifies and distributes his investment among these four. These few companies handle 81 per cent of the air transport business. To get a similar large interest and proper diversification in railroad transportation an investor would be obliged to purchase stocks in nearly 100 separate roads.

Mrs. Rentz Heads W.S.C.S. District

Grove City District Has Meeting Thursday in Greenville Methodist Church

Mrs. J. F. Rentz of Epworth Methodist church, New Castle, was elected new president of the Grove City District of Erie Conference. Women's Society of Christian Service, when that group met Thursday in Greenville Methodist church. Mrs. Carl S. Hart, retiring president, presided at the morning session which opened with registration at 9:30 o'clock. Morning meditation was by Miss Ida Schnackel of New Castle. Reports and talks were given at the morning session as follows: secretary of literature, Mrs. B. A. Rhoads; missionary education, Mrs. Roy Grandy; student work, Mrs. I. E. Abernathy; Christian social relations and local church activities, Mrs. H. D. Webster; treasurer's report, Mrs. Q. E. Day; talk, "Our Aim," Mrs. L. F. Hemenway.

After election of officers, Rev. A. P. Weaver, pastor of Greenville church, led in prayer and luncheon was served by the Women's Society of Christian Service, Greenville, headed by Mrs. Denniston. Mrs. Rentz, vice president, presided in the afternoon when the worship service was led by Mrs. M. L. Lindstrom of New Wilmington. Reports and talks were as follows: Youth Fellowship, Miss Alma Wolvert; "Our Heritage," Mrs. Carl S. Hart; supplies, Mrs. J. M. Edwards; missionary personnel, Miss Ida Schnackel; "Forward Look," Mrs. C. C. Davis of Uniontown, Erie Conference present of W. B. C. S. A vocal solo was presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Kreps Ralston, accompanied by Mrs. McQueen.

Mrs. C. C. Davis installed the new officers for 1944: president, Mrs. Rentz; vice president, Mrs. David Rees, New Castle; missionary education and service, Mrs. Roy Grandy, Sharpville; Christian social relations and local church activities, Mrs. Donald Perrine, Grove City; recording secretary, Mrs. Thomas Eshelman, Franklin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. Hemenway, New Castle; treasurer, Mrs. Q. E. Day, Mahoningtown; secretaries: student work, Mrs. Paul Morley, Jamestown; Y. W. C. A. and girls, Miss Alma Wolvert, deaconess from New Castle; children's work, Miss Ida Schnackel, deaconess from New Castle; literature and publications, Mrs. B. A. Rhoads, Sandy Lake; supplies, Mrs. J. M. Edwards, New Castle; chairman of spiritual life, Mrs. R. R. McLenn, Greenville; committee on status of women, Mrs. M. P. Williams, Franklin.

This group has been invited to Sharpville Methodist church for the meeting next fall.

BOY SCOUTS

At the second meeting of Girl Scouts of Troop 1 plans were discussed for a bike hike and a dance. The hike will aid the girls in passing the cyclist badge. The dance is scheduled for a social event. The girls also learned how to fix a bike tire. Charlene Vogan and Pat Bliz were instructors.

Red Cross Clubs In North Africa Do A Lot, Soldier Tells

Received V-mail from Lieut. John W. Post, in North Africa, by Dr. J. W. Post of 208 East Garfield avenue, has come a letter that gives first hand information of what the Red Cross clubs are doing in battle areas for the men in our armed forces.

The letter, a copy of which was released today at the local Red Cross chapter office, reads: Dear Folks: I take it that by now you have received my cable and perhaps my first letter. I recommend that you use V-mail as we get about 10-day service. Some letters have come thru in even less time.

This North Africa is a funny place, first hot and dry with lots of dust storms and then rain and ankle deep mud. We are doing o. k. though and the food is all right. What we do miss though are fresh fruits and vegetables and milk, etc. The army uses little if any of the local produce.

More about the Red Cross—they have provided in a nearby city an officers' club and an enlisted men's club. Here they provide good eats and showers, dances, etc., all at little or no cost to us. They even have ice cream at 2 o'clock each day as long as it lasts. The Red Cross is certainly appreciated by everyone over here. More dollars over there would help to show our appreciation.

Prepare To Start Trial Of Count

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Nassau seethed with excitement today as preparations proceeded for the trial of Count Alfred De Marigny, opening Monday. Nancy Oakes De Marigny, accompanied by private defense investigator Raymond Schindler, arrived by plane from Miami for the trial. Nancy said she is standing by her husband, who is charged with the murder of his father-in-law, multimillionaire Sir Harry Oakes. Indications are that the trial probably will last three weeks.

De Marigny is accused of battering to death the wealthy Nassau resident, whose body was found in bed at his palatial residence. The bedclothes had been set afire, but the flames had been quelled by a nearby electric fan.

EARL OF LINDSAY DIES
MANCHESTER - BY THE SEA, Mass., Oct. 15.—(INS)—Funeral services will be held Monday for Archibald "Lionel" Lindsay, 71, 13th Earl of Lindsay, who died last night at his home.

There are more persons by the name of Smith in the United States and England than any other.

Post No. 315, V.F.W. Sells Record Of War Bonds, Stamps

Neshannock Post No. 315 of the V. F. W. recently held a dinner party as a jubilant climax to their campaign of selling war bonds and stamps at a special booth in the G. C. Murphy store on East Washington street.

The guest list numbered 45, and festivities took place at a prominent dining room downtown.

Special guests included William Voorhis, manager of Murphy's, and his wife, Miss Mary Quinn and Miss Agnes McConnell, also of the G. C. Murphy Co.

Frank G. Sargent, who is serving as co-ordinator of civilian defense, was also present. He made a short address, and Mr. Voorhis was called upon for a few remarks. Both commended the group of women who have given their time and support to this project.

Since last August, the Neshannock Post No. 315, V. F. W., has sold a total of $37,706.20 in war bonds and war stamps.

The same organization will continue with their selling program at the same headquarters.

SGT. ISAAC HAS SPLENDID RECORD

Much-Decorated Aerial Gunner Has Completed Fifty Bombing Missions

New Castle has its full share of heroes from the current war, men who have thrilling exploits to their credit on land in the air, and on the sea. Not the least of these is Tech. Sgt. Edwin R. Isaac, East Side boy, who has just been cited for completing his 50th bombing mission against the Axis from an advanced base in North Africa.

Sgt. Isaac, who is 23 years of age, has been in the army for three years. He has been awarded the Air Medal, 9 Oak Leaf Clusters, the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross and the Purple Heart. These last two awards were made for gallantry in action on January 3, 1943, over La Goulette Tunisia, when he was credited with destroying a German Me-109. On January 31, Sgt. Isaac and the crew of the Fortress on which he was serving, had to bail out of a flak-crippled Fortress at Bone, near the enemy lines.

He received his gunner's wings on December 22, 1941 and went overseas seven months later. After leaving England, he flew his first mission from North Africa over Bizerte on November 28. His 50th mission was during a raid on the German staff headquarters at Frascati, Italy, on September 8. His first bombing mission was over Meaulle, France, a little less than a year ago.

Thus this veteran of 14 months of foreign service can look back on missions over France, Germany, Tunisia, Sardinia, Sicily, Pantelaria, and Italy.

PLAINGROVE NOTES

Condition of Mrs. Aileen Fulton, who is a patient in the Jameson Memorial hospital, seems fair.

Robert Armstrong has sold his farm to Daniel J. Doughty of Corapolis and will give possession the first of December.

Edwin Otremba has returned to camp after spending his furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Otremba.

Mrs. Madge Miller of Prospect is visiting at the home of Mrs. Jennie Minnick. Mrs. Miller was a former resident of Plaingrove.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Offut of Ellwood announce the birth of a daughter on Saturday. She will answer to Joan Marie.

Clair Hanna of Gardena, Calif., was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben McCleary. Mr. Hanna is Mr. and Mrs. McCleary's son-in-law. Marian Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Martin, was admitted to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where he had his appendix removed on Saturday.

Local Flyer Has Had Many Missions

Staff Sgt. Joseph Broschart Has Taken Part In 80 Bombing Missions

Engineer Staff Sgt. Joseph Broschart, member of the crew of the "Eager Beaver", one of the oldest B-24 bombers in the South Pacific area, belongs to a crew which has taken part in 80 bombing missions, news dispatches from the South Pacific area reveal. Its score of devastation to the Japs amounts to three aircraft, a cruiser and two other Jap ships.

This was disclosed by International News Correspondent Peter Hemery, who rode in the big Liberator bomber when it helped plaster Rabaul out of existence this week. Broschart carries several citations as a result of the fine work done by the "Eager Beaver".

Delegates Home From Convention

New Castle And Lawrence
County Delegation At State
Sessions Totaled 36

Lawrence county delegates, numbering 36 that attended the eighty-first convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association which was held Tuesday through Thursday of this week, have returned home well pleased. Harry E. Paisley, president, and Walter E. Myers, general secretary, as well as the other officers and directors, were re-elected for the coming year. The place of the next state convention will be announced later, as the members of the place committee, of which the Lawrence county president is a member, wish to give the matter further consideration.

The Memorials Committee in its report, included the name of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Graham, Pa., one of the active Sunday school workers that have died since the last convention.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas of the Second Baptist Sunday school of New Castle, was awarded a John Wanamaker "Fifty Years of Service" as a teacher, certificate. The regular medal will be substituted for this certificate as soon as the U. S. government will grant permission for the making of same.

As Mrs. Thomas was unable to be present, this was accepted in her behalf at the convention and will be presented to her in the near future in Lawrence county.

SGT. ISAAC HAS SPLENDID RECORD

Much-Decorated Aerial Gunner Has Completed Fifty Bombing Missions

New Castle has its full share of heroes from the current war, men who have thrilling exploits to their credit on land in the air, and on the sea. Nor the least of these is Tech. Sgt. Edwin R. Isaac, East Side boy, who has just been cited for completing his 50th bombing mission against the Axis from an advanced base in North Africa.

Sgt. Isaac, who is 23 years of age, has been in the army for three years. He has been awarded the Air Medal, 9 Oak Leaf Clusters, the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross and the Purple Heart. These last two awards were made for gallantry in action on January 3, 1943, over La Goulette, Tunisia, when he was credited with destroying a German Me-109. On January 31, Sgt. Isaac and the crew of the Fortress on which he was serving, had to bail out of a flak-crippled Fortress at Bone, near the enemy lines.

He received his gunner's wings on December 22, 1941, and went overseas seven months later. After leaving England, he flew his first mission from North Africa over Bizerte on November 28. His 50th mission was during a raid on the German staff headquarters at Fricenti, Italy, on September 8. His first bombing mission was over Mautice, France, a little less than a year ago.

Thus this veteran of 14 months of foreign service can look back on missions over France, Germany, Tunisia, Sardinia, Sicily, Pantelaria, and Italy.

Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by the younger group.

Special guest of the evening was Mrs. Mont Minor.

PLAINGROVE NOTES

Condition of Mrs. Aileen Fulton, who is a patient in the Jameson Memorial hospital, seems fair.

Robert Armstrong has sold his farm to Daniel J. Doughty of Corapolis and will give possession the first of December.

Edwin Otremba has returned to camp after spending his furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Otremba.

Mrs. Madge Miller of Prospect is visiting at the home of Mrs. Jennie Minick. Mrs. Miller was a former resident of Plaingrove.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Offut of Ellwood announce the birth of a daughter on Saturday. She will answer to Joan Marie.

Cliff Hanna of Gardena, Calif., was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beal McCleary. Mr. Hanna is Mr. and Mrs. McCleary's son-in-law.

Marion Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Martin, was admitted to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where he had his appendix removed on Saturday.

Local Flyer Has Had Many Missions

Staff Sgt. Joseph Brochart Has Taken Part in 80 Bombing Missions

Engineer Staff Sgt. Joseph Brochart, member of the crew of the "Eager Beaver", one of the oldest B-24 bombers in the South Pacific area, belongs to a crew which has taken part in 80 bombing missions, news dispatches from the South Pacific area reveal. Its score of devastation to the Japs amounts to three aircraft, a cruiser and two other Jap ships.

This was disclosed by International News Correspondent Peter Hemery, who rode in the big Liberator bomber when it helped plaster Rabaul out of existence this week. Brochart carries several citations as a result of the fine work done by the "Eager Beaver".

Delegates Home From Convention

New Castle And Lawrence County Delegation At State Sessions Totalled 36

Lawrence county delegates, numbering 36 that attended the eighty-first convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association which was held Tuesday through Thursday of this week, have returned home well pleased.

Harry E. Paisley, president, and Walter E. Myers, general secretary, as well as the other officers and directors, were re-elected for the coming year. The place of the next state convention will be announced later, as the members of the place committee, of which the Lawrence county president is a member, wish to give the matter further consideration.

The Memorial Committee in its report, included the name of A. S. Kildoo of Lawrence county, as one of the active Sunday school workers that have died since the last convention.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas of the Second Baptist Sunday school of New Castle, was awarded a John Wanamaker "Fifty Years of Service" as a teacher, certificate. The regular medal will be substituted for this certificate as soon as the U. S. government will grant permission for the making of same.

As Mrs. Thomas was unable to be present, this was accepted in her behalf at the convention and will be presented to her in the near future in Lawrence county.

Cooperative For Alaska Farmers

Idea Is Part Of Program At Matanuska Valley Farm Project

COMMUNITY CITES MANY BENEFITS

(This is the fourth and final article in a series in which Howard Handelman reports on the home front in Alaska.)

By HOWARD HANDELMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MATANUSKA VALLEY, Alaska, Oct. 15.—The farmers of Matanuska Valley have set up a model cooperative society, based on their desire to buy and sell as a unit.

The cooperative idea was part of the government plan for the Matanuska farming experiment in 1935, and it caught on. The colonists picked it up and made it work.

Through the cooperative, the people of the unincorporated village have a fine, well-equipped hospital, a modern lodge which serves as hotel for travelers and dormitory for nurses, teachers and other workers brought in from other places, a weekly movie, a weekly newspaper and many more advantages usually unavailable to tiny farming communities.

Medical Mission
The hospital, on the outskirts of the civic center, is leased to a Seventh Day Adventist medical mission for one dollar a year.

The Adventists sent young Dr. David Hoehn, a Canora, Saskatchewan, youth who was graduated from the college of Medical Evangelists at Los Angeles, Calif., in 1937, to the hospital, along with six nurses. He is the only practicing physician in the valley of 2,000 population. His wife, also a physician, is not in practice.

"We have two problems here," he said. "Tuberculosis among the natives is bad. Among the white population there is an urgent need of health education, particularly as regards children."

"We are well equipped, have a new operating table, a fine X-ray set-up and can do just about anything a large hospital can do, limited only by my knowledge."

Dr. Hoehn said he believes the 32 beds in the hospital sufficient to care for the valley's needs, but added he does need an ambulance badly.

Three Churches
Behind the hospital are three churches, close together. Dominating is the big United Protestant church, a yellow log building with 14 pews.

Smaller is the Catholic church, also of log construction. It has 16 pews, but does not have the extra rooms of the Protestant church. Smallest of the three churches is St. John's Lutheran, also built of logs.

Harold L. Thuma is superintendent of the school, a one-story frame building to which 291 reported in the first week of the school year. There are eight grade school teachers, a special music teacher, and four high school teachers. Thuma also teaches.

He is most proud of the student body organization.

"They take care of everything themselves," he said. "We have a 3,200 volume library, the only one available in the valley. The student body finances it by taking ten per cent of every admission to school functions for the library fund."

Thuma pointed out the window to a playground.

"That's theirs, too," he said. "The student body made the slides and swings in the shop downstairs. They are learning how to live together here."

That is the keynote of Matanuska's future.

POPULAR COURSE
BOSTON.—(INS)—Spanish language classes at Boston University are now the largest in history of the College of Liberal Arts.

Many of the students believe that the closer relations between the Latin-American countries, will create a big demand for students of the Spanish language.

Asserts British Nations To Supply Postwar Food

By ERWIN D. SIAS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Vice-president Henry A. Wallace said today that British commonwealth nations, Argentina and Africa—not the United States—will supply the major part of the food for ravaged countries in the postwar world.

Speaking from his knowledge as secretary of agriculture for eight years and a study of world agriculture, the vice-president in an exclusive interview combated the idea of some European leaders that the United States will be the sole "granary of democracy" after the war.

The British commonwealth countries named by the vice-president are Canada, Australia and New Zealand. Africa, including both British and other possessions, will be a major source, he added.

MANY SCHOOL CHILDREN TO COLLECT SCRAP ON VACATION
HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—(INS)—School children were called upon today to devote part of their time to collecting scrap while schools are closed for the issuance of ration book number four.

The state defense council pointed out that most schools will be closed from October 25 to 27 and added that the department of public instruction had approved the suggestion.

PULWOOD SHORTAGE IS MENACE TO FOOD DISTRIBUTION NOW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Arthur D. Whiteside, WPB vice-chairman in charge of civilian supplies, warned today that the acute shortage of pulwood for paper containers threatens to break down

America's entire food distribution machinery.

At the same time, Whiteside urged farmers to begin immediate cutting of pulwood on their farm lands to bolster the supply by a needed 2,500,000 cords.

"The paper shortage is one of the most serious problems facing America's civilian economy and if pul-wood cutting doesn't increase, the nation is threatened with a breakdown of the entire machinery of food distribution," Whiteside said.

"We have two problems here," he said. "Tuberculosis among the natives is bad. Among the white population there is an urgent need of health education, particularly as regards children."

"We are well equipped, have a new operating table, a fine X-ray setup and can do just about anything a large hospital can do, limited only by my knowledge."

Dr. Hoehn said he believes the 32 beds in the hospital sufficient to care for the valley's needs, but added he does need an ambulance badly.

Three Churches
Behind the hospital are three churches, close together. Dominating is the big United Protestant church, a yellow log building with 14 pews.

Smaller is the Catholic church, also of log construction. It has 16 pews, but does not have the extra rooms of the Protestant church. Smallest of the three churches is St. John's Lutheran, also built of logs.

Harold L. Thuma is superintendent of the school, a two-story frame building to which 291 reported in the first week of the school year. There are eight grade school teachers, a special music teacher, and four high school teachers. Thuma also teaches.

He is most proud of the student body organization.

"They take care of everything themselves," he said. "We have a 3,200 volume library, the only one available in the valley. The student body finances it by taking ten percent of every admission to school functions for the library fund."

Thuma pointed out the window to a playground.

"That's theirs, too," he said. "The student body made the slides and swings in the shop downstairs. They are learning how to live together here."

That is the keynote of Matanuska's future.

POPULAR COURSE

BOSTON.—(INS)—Spanish language classes at Boston University are now the largest in history of the College of Liberal Arts.

Many of the students believe that the closer relations between the Latin-American countries, will create a big demand for students of the Spanish language.

Asserts British Nations To Supply Postwar Food

By ERWIN D. SIAS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Vice-president Henry A. Wallace said today that British commonwealth nations, Argentina and Africa—not the United States—will supply the major part of the food for ravaged countries in the postwar world.

Speaking from his knowledge as secretary of agriculture for eight years and a study of world agriculture, the vice-president in an exclusive interview combatted the idea of some European leaders that the United States will be the sole "granary of democracy" after the war.

The British commonwealth countries named by the vice-president are Canada, Australia and New Zealand. Africa, including both British and other possessions, will be a major source, he added.

MANY SCHOOL CHILDREN TO COLLECT SCRAP ON VACATION
HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—School children were called upon today to devote part of their time to collecting scrap while schools are closed for the issuance of ration book number four.

The state defense council pointed out that most schools will be closed from October 25 to 27 and added that the department of public instruction had approved the suggestion.

PULPWOOD SHORTAGE

IS MENACE TO FOOD DISTRIBUTION NOW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Arthur D. Whiteside, WPB vice-chairman in charge of civilian supplies, warned today that the acute shortage of pulpwood for paper containers threatens to break down

America's entire food distribution machinery.

At the same time, Whiteside urged farmers to begin immediate cutting of pulpwood on their farm lands to bolster the supply by a needed 2,500,000 cords.

"The paper shortage is one of the most serious problems facing America's civilian economy and if pulpwood cutting doesn't increase, the nation is threatened with a breakdown of the entire machinery of food distribution," Whiteside said.

RELIEF CHISELERS FORCED TO RETURN EIGHT MILLIONS

By TONY ZECCA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—(INS)—The Department of Public Assistance disclosed today that it has forced relief chiselers and other recipients to return nearly $8,000,000 which had been doled out for welfare claims.

During the past six years, $7,871,211 was collected, the department revealed, with wartime prosperity enabling investigators to speed up claim settlements.

Repayments were made through restitutions, where recipients were ineligible for all or part of their dole, and reimbursements where relief payments were legally made to property-owners, who remained liable for eventual repayment.

Increased repayments were noted during the first nine months of 1942 when $1,183,152 was collected, compared with the first nine months of 1941 when collections rose to $1,443,241.

The department said that prosecution or relief chiselers in county courts resulted in a "marked decrease" in attempts to obtain assistance illegally.

The claims settlement division, headed by John H. Sylvester, employs specially-trained agents and attorneys who cooperate closely with county assistance boards and local law enforcement agencies.

County assistance boards were termed constantly on the alert to weed out unqualified recipients from the relief rolls by investigating eligibility of families and individuals through property records, bank accounts and other sources.

The department added that "except in flagrant cases of fraud, meriting immediate prosecution, an opportunity is given the recipient to make restitution voluntarily." Such arrangements may involve cash settlement or installments out of future earnings.

Senior Service Scouts Take Oath

Impressive Services At First
U. P. Church Thursday
Evening For Senior
Scouts

One of the most impressive services in Girl Scouting is the administering of the senior service oath. The first group in New Castle to be admitted to this, one of the highest in Girl Scouting ranks, were invested at a beautiful candle light service at the First U. P. church Thursday evening. The girls who took this added oath before mothers and friends were Vivian Allen, Leona Badger, Marylou Edgar, Gloria Hunt and Patsy Stitzinger.

Mrs. C. M. England, Girl Scout commissioner, received the girls as presented by Miss Jean Watkins, one of the leaders of the troops. The oath was administered by Miss Marie C. Hay, local executive secretary. Miss Helene Edgar, the other leader of the troop, pinned on the special recognition arm band.

After the investiture service, the girls entertained their guests by singing, showing pictures of a camping trip taken last summer, and narration of plans for the immediate future.

Other girls in the troop are working on the requirements for this rank and will be invested at a later date.

Many Volunteer To Dig Potatoes

Response to the appeal for aid in harvesting potato crops on Lawrence county farms was excellent. It is announced today, and sufficient volunteers were reported to handle the situation satisfactorily.

More than a hundred persons answered the appeal to aid in digging potatoes in the past few days, and no more are needed at present, it is stated.

Part of Corporal Salmen's company was going into a city in Sicily when he saw his brother-in-law standing on a street corner. He stopped to speak to him and told him where he was stationed. Petty Officer Dilks then got a pass and went to spend a day with Corporal Salmen. Both had been in the same cities in Africa at the same time but they had not seen each other. Corporal Salmen, — and so on to the end.

who went overseas in January, has been in several battles, and Petty Officer Dilks, who went overseas in May, took part in the invasion of Sicily as did his brother-in-law. Dilks was promoted to 2-c petty officer on his 19th birthday. Corporal Salmen is married to the former Leona Dilks.

FINLAND TO INCREASE WAR DEBT PAYMENTS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Finland agreed today to increase payments on her World War I debt by $42,264.36 a year for 20 years in order to make up the sum of $845,287.24 which accumulated during the period of the war between Russia and Finland.

The agreement, executed by Hjalmar J. Procopio, Finnish minister and acting treasury secretary Daniel W. Bell, provides for semi-annual payments to be made on June 15 and December 15, beginning June 15, 1945.

After a two year lapse of payments, approved by Congress, Finland resumed paying off on her debt last June.

The Germans pour their own medicine this time. While they are destroying a conquered city, our bombers will destroy one of theirs — and so on to the end.

RELIEF CHISELERS FORCED TO RETURN EIGHT MILLIONS

By TONY ZECCA

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—(INS)—

The Department of Public Assistance disclosed today that it has forced relief chiselers and other recipients to return nearly $8,000,000 which had been doled out for welfare claims.

During the past six years, $7,371,211 was collected, the department revealed, with wartime prosperity enabling investigators to speed up claim settlements.

Repayments were made through deductions from recipients' paychecks for all or part of their dole, and reimbursements where relief payments were legally made to property-owners, who remained liable for eventual repayment.

Increased repayments were noted during the first nine months of 1942 when $1,180,152 was collected, compared with the first nine months of this year when collections rose to $1,443,241.

The department said that prosecution or relief chiselers in county courts resulted in a "marked decrease" in attempts to obtain assistance illegally.

The claims settlement division, headed by John H. Sylvester, employs specially-trained agents and attorneys who cooperate closely with county assistance boards and local law enforcement agencies.

County assistance boards were termed constantly on the alert to weed out unqualified recipients from the relief rolls by investigating eligibility of families and individuals through property records, bank accounts and other sources.

The department added that "except in flagrant cases of fraud, meriting immediate prosecution, an opportunity is given the recipient to make restitution voluntarily." Such arrangements may involve cash settlement or installments out of future earnings.

Senior Service Scouts Take Oath

Impressive Services At First
U. P. Church Thursday
Evening For Senior
Scouts

One of the most impressive services in Girl Scouting is the administering of the senior service oath. The first group in New Castle to be admitted to this one of the highest in Girl Scouting ranks, were inducted at a beautiful candle light service at the First U. P. church Thursday evening. The girls who took this added oath before mothers and friends were Vivian Allen, Leona Badger, Marylou Edgar, Gloria Hunt and Patsy Stitzinger. Mrs. C. M. England, Girl Scout commissioner, received the girls as presented by Miss Jean Watkins, one of the leaders of the troops. The oath was administered by Miss Marie C. Hay, local executive secretary. Miss Helene Edgar, the other leader of the troop, pinned on the special recognition arm band.

After the investiture service, the girls entertained their guests by singing, showing pictures of a camping trip taken last summer, and narration of plans for the immediate future.

Other girls in the troop are working on the requirements for this rank and will be invested at a later date.

Many Volunteer To Dig Potatoes

Response to the appeal for aid in harvesting potato crops on Lawrence county farms was excellent, it is announced today, and sufficient volunteers were reported to handle the situation satisfactorily. More than a hundred persons answered the appeal to aid in digging potatoes in the past few days, and no more are needed at present, it is stated.

Try Pillsbury's Best with any good recipe. If you don't like it better than any other all-purpose flour, Pillsbury's Cooking Service, Minneapolis, will give you back the cost of all your recipe ingredients!

Pillsbury's SHORT-ON-SHORTENING Cake

TEMPERATURE: 350° F. Makes 8x2x2-inch loaf cake. TIME: about 50 minutes

• 2 cups sifted PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched FLOUR
• 3 teaspoons baking powder (or 2 teaspoons double-acting)
• ¾ teaspoon salt
• ½ cup shortening

1. Sift flour once, measure; add baking powder and salt; sift three times.
2. Cream shortening; add orange and lemon rind. Add sugar gradually; cream well. 3. Add eggs separately; beat about one minute after each.

• 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
• 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
• 1 cup sugar
• 2 eggs, unbeaten
• 1 cup top-milk
• 1 teaspoon vanilla

4. Add dry ingredients alternately with combined top-milk and flavoring; mix well after each addition; beat well after last addition only. 5. Turn into greased, lined loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven. Frost as desired, when cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Lin Dilks, Harbor street, have received word that their son, 2-c Petty Officer Lin Dilks Jr., and their son-in-law, Corp. Samuel Salminen, also of Harbor street, met in a city in Sicily recently for the first time in two years. Part of Corporal Salminen's company was going into a city in Sicily when he saw his brother-in-law standing on a street corner. He stopped to speak to him and told him where he was stationed. Petty Officer Dilks then got a pass and went to spend a day with Corporal Salminen. Both had been in the same cities in Africa at the same time but they had not seen each other. Corporal Salminen, who went overseas in January, has been in several battles, and Petty Officer Dilks, who went overseas in May, took part in the invasion of Sicily as did his brother-in-law. Dilks was promoted to 2-c petty officer on his 19th birthday. Corporal Salminen is married to the former Leona Dilks.

FINLAND TO INCREASE WAR DEBT PAYMENTS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Finland agreed today to increase payments on her World War I debt by $42,264.36 a year for 20 years in order to make up the sum of $845,287.24 which accumulated during the period of the war between Russia and Finland.

The agreement, executed by Hjalmar J. Procopio, Finnish minister and acting treasury secretary Daniel W. Bell, provides for semi-annual payments to be made on June 15 and December 15, beginning June 15, 1945.

After a two year lapse of payments, approved by Congress, Finland resumed paying off on her debt last June.

The Germans pour their own medicine this time. While they are destroying a conquered city, our bombers will destroy one of theirs—and so on to the end.

Stay Off Other People's Property Police Chief Warns Boys And Girls

COMPLICATE HUNT FOR NIGHT ACCOSTER

Police experienced a normal night last night because few people imagined they saw the "night hawk" and what few calls were received were quickly investigated and residents made to feel at ease.

However, because last night passed off without any untoward incidents it does not imply that Chief W. G. McMullen, his force and auxiliary police have ceased their search for the "night hawk". Chief McMullen said there are many miles here to be covered by the police, and the only way in which his department can achieve success is through the co-operation of the public.

He said that one of the difficulties faced is that the identity of the girl molester is unknown and this makes it necessary at times to question persons who might be in lonely streets.

"It is the duty of such persons when asked to stop and answer questions. Police have a right to quiz any person under certain circumstances, some of which exist at present."

"The good citizen will stop immediately, answer questions courteously and the men who are guarding the public also will act courteously. Their only intention is to catch the man we're after."

The chief also pointed out that during the past several nights there have been more women on the streets late at night than for some weeks past. He advises that they stay at home unless they have a good reason to be out.

Stay Off Other's Property The head of the police bureau also pointed out that this is the Halloween season and parents should admonish their sons and daughters to stay out of other people's yards.

"For instance, a woman who is nervous may be alone at night in her home. She hears a noise, then sees a big boy run through a dark part of her yard. She becomes alarmed."

"She calls the police department. A car darts for the place, while men stationed in the section received a telephone call to center in that section."

"I believe that the big percentage of parents want to co-operate and would be happy to hear of the 'night hawk' being caught. A warning to their offspring to stay off other people's property will help," he added.

He also said that women who are out at night and who see a man walking behind them should not immediately come to the conclusion that "he" is "the" molester. "Possibly the man is walking home or returning from his work," McMullen said.

There are many men who are employed on the second shift who walk home, hence it isn't good policy for women to become frightened if they are not accosted.

The report that a young woman was accosted in East Washington street near Kurtz street, Wednesday night was exploded by an investigation conducted by Detectives Chief Criswell and Detectives Young and Thomas yesterday.

The girl, who another girl said had been accosted, was not accosted. A boy friend made the remarks allegedly attributed, but was only fooling, she explained. However, his remarks caused an investigation, as will all complaints.

Tonight is football night. Most all girls will have escorts to and from games or travel in groups. However, there will be many police scattered throughout the city tonight to protect them, it was stated.

Draft Delinquents Are Given Warning

Must Straighten Out Their Cases Or Be Placed In 1-A For Induction

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS).—All men between the ages of 18 and 38 who are "delinquent" in the draft have 16 days today to straighten out their cases or be placed into 1-A and ordered to report for induction.

National draft headquarters announced that it would begin its crack down policy on draft delinquents Nov. 1 and declared that those who disregard the induction orders will be reported to the U. S. attorneys for prosecution.

Delinquents include men who fail to return a completed draft questionnaire within 10 days, give false information, do not keep in touch with local boards, fail to report a change in status, report for physical examination and induction.

Officials said that order numbers, occupational and dependency classifications will be disregarded in classifying delinquent registrants.

"We intend to make available promptly for service in the armed forces or for prosecution, every person acceptable to the armed forces who knowingly becomes a delinquent," officials said.

At the end of August more than 90,000 cases of delinquency were on file, half of them already in the hands of the justice department. Each month an estimated total of 11,000 become delinquent and approximately the same number are located by federal agents.

GIRL SCOUTS

Troop 8 met on Thursday evening, and the girls played games and following worked on their badges in the patrol corners.

Vote On Increased Allowances To Come In House On Monday

By WILLIAM THEIS (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The House considered a three-way choice on increased allowances for the families of fighting men today with bi-partisan support strong for a "compromise" Senate scale of rates.

After a full day of debate, the House postponed a vote until Monday. But even Republicans and Democrats who swung to support the middle program of $80 a month for a wife and one child admitted that only the technicality of avoiding a record vote blocked acceptance of a higher payment schedule.

The CIO recommended the higher rates, suggesting $55 for a wife, $35 for the first child and $30 for each other child. They were opposed by Rep. Sadowski (D-Mich.) and could not be beaten on a roll call vote, various members said.

Feeling certain that parliamentary procedure made a roll call on the Sadowski measure unobtainable, members favoring the alternative plans said they were "about right".

The compromise scale, backed by Republican leader Martin and offered by Rep. Clason (R-Mass.), was described by other members as the "bare minimum" for families if fathers are to be drafted.

Meanwhile, the House Military committee turned to consideration of a revised Senate bill tightening draft deferments and to hearing undersecretary of war Robert Patterson on termination of war contracts.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the Military Affairs committee, said he believed the House was "convinced by the debate" that his group's figures of $50 for a wife, $25 for the first child, $20 for the second and $15 for others were "about right".

Spaghetti Dinner Is Enjoyed Thursday Night At St. Margaret's Hall

Shop craftsmen of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad enjoyed a spaghetti dinner Thursday night, October 14, in St. Margaret's hall in the seventh ward with about 125 attending. Joseph Paluszak, president of the Shop Crafts, acted as toastmaster.

Three speakers were heard, each of them dwelling upon the importance of harmonious labor relations and the necessity of every worker doing his utmost in the prosecution of the war effort. The three, A. H. Stearns, general chairman of the Sheet Metal Workers; A. G. Skundor, organizer for the International Machinists; and Harold G. Shaffer, chief clerk to the superintendent of motive power in Pittsburg.

There was no special significance to the dinner, it was merely a desire on the part of the men to get together around the dinner table and enjoy a period of sociability. And they did.

Miners' Strike Banks Furnaces

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 15.—(INS).—The Republic Steel Corp. announced it will bank its two blast furnaces in Birmingham today because the coal supply has been cut off by a strike of miners who refuse to work under private ownership of the pits.

Closing of the furnaces, it was said, will virtually halt all Republic operations in the area. The steel firm has no backlog of coal.

Approximately 75 per cent of the membership of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers' union in the Birmingham area left the pits when the federal government returned the mines to private ownership. The government had operated the mines for several months since the last general coal strike.

TWO FIRE CALLS Firemen answered two alarms in the last 24 hours, both for similar causes but which required no action from the firemen. Chief James E. Thomas reported today.

At 4:28 p. m. Thursday afternoon seventh ward firemen were called to the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company when a generator became overheated. At 12:20 a. m. today they were summoned to the Elliott Brothers Steel company on Taylor street when a motor became overheated.

Hallowe'eners Are Warned

Stay Off Other People's Property Police Chief Warns Boys And Girls

COMPLICATE HUNT FOR NIGHT ACCOSTER

Police experienced a normal night last night because few people imagined they saw the "night hawk" and what few calls were received were quickly investigated and residents made to feel at ease.

However, because last night passed off without any untoward incidents it does not imply that Chief W. C. McMullen, his force and auxiliary police have ceased their search for the "night hawk".

Chief McMullen said there are many miles here to be covered by the police, and the only way in which his department can achieve success is through the co-operation of the public.

He said that one of the difficulties faced is that the identity of the "night hawk" is unknown and this makes it necessary at times to question persons who might be in lonely streets.

"It is the duty of such persons when asked to stop and answer questions. Police have a right to quiz any person under certain circumstances, some of which exist at night."

"The good citizen will stop immediately, answer questions courteously and the men who are guarding the public also will act courteously. Their only intention is to catch the man we're after."

The chief also pointed out that during the past several nights there have been more women on the streets late at night than for some weeks past. He advises that they stay at home unless they have a good reason to be out.

Stay Off Other's Property

The head of the police bureau also pointed out that this is the pre-Hallowe'en season and parents should admonish their sons and daughters to stay out of other people's yards.

"For instance, a woman who is nervous may be alone at night in her home. She hears a noise, then sees a big boy run through a dark part of her yard. She becomes alarmed."

"She calls the police department. A car darts for the place, while men stationed in the section received a telephone call to center in that section."

"I believe that the big percentage of parents want to co-operate and would be happy to hear of the 'night hawk' being caught. A warning to their offspring to stay off other people's property will help," he added.

He also said that women who are out at night and who see a man walking behind them should not immediately come to the conclusion

Vote On Increased Allowances To Come In House On Monday

By WILLIAM THEIS (N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The House considered a three-way choice on increased allowances for the families of fighting men today with a bi-partisan support strong for a "compromise" Senate schedule.

After a full day of debate, the House postponed a vote until Monday. But even Republicans and Democrats who swung to support the middle program of $80 a month for a wife and one child admitted that only the technicality of avoiding a record vote blocked acceptance of a higher payment schedule.

Draft Delinquents Are Given Warning

Must Straighten Out Their Cases Or Be Placed In I-A For Induction

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—All men between the ages of 18 and 38 who are "delinquent" in the draft have 16 days today to straighten out their cases or be placed into I-A and ordered to report for induction.

National draft headquarters announced that it would begin its crack down policy on draft delinquents Nov. 1 and directed that those who disregard the induction orders will be reported to the U. S. attorneys for prosecution.

Delinquents include men who fail to return a completed draft questionnaire within 10 days, give false information, do not keep in touch with local boards, fail to report a change in status, report for physical examination and induction.

Officials said that order numbers, occupational and dependency classifications will be disregarded in classifying delinquent registrants.

"We intend to make available promptly for service in the armed forces or for prosecution, every person acceptable to the armed forces who knowingly becomes a delinquent," officials said.

At the end of August more than 90,000 cases of delinquency were on file, half of them already in the hands of the justice department. Each month an estimated total of 11,000 become delinquent and approximately the same number are located by federal agents.

Warns That O.P.A. Expects Compliance With Truck Orders

Boyd Declares That Retail And Wholesale Delivery Orders Must Be Obeyed

Full compliance from truck operators with new Office of Defense Transportation restrictions on all retail and wholesale deliveries in this area is expected by the Office of Defense Transportation, Harry G. Boyd, district manager warned today.

This warning came after the new restrictions went into effect in this area this week, and was prompted from a volume of requests from operators seeking relief from the restrictions of the order.

"It has come to my attention," said Mr. Boyd "that many of the operators in my district feel they can get special operating permits in an effort to avoid the restrictions without attempting to operate under the order."

The order, ODT-17-3b, although new to most of this territory has been in effect since May 27, 1943 in the eastern critical area, Mr. Boyd stated. The principle purpose of the order is to limit the number of wholesale and retail deliveries which may be made weekly and to prohibit the retail delivery of any article which does not exceed five pounds in weight or which does not exceed sixty inches in combined length and girth. All wholesale deliveries except ice are prohibited on Sunday, and all retail deliveries except ice and milk or cream and related dairy products when delivered in combination with milk or cream, are prohibited on Sunday and delivery routes of each company must be immediately rearranged so that they neither duplicate or overlap.

The new restrictions are imposed not arbitrarily to curb truck operations, but to safeguard the continuance of retail and wholesale deliveries in the face of serious and growing wartime shortages of tires.

Warns That O.P.A. Expects Compliance With Truck Orders

Boyd Declares That Retail And Wholesale Delivery Orders Must Be Obeyed

Full compliance from truck operators with new Office of Defense Transportation restrictions on all retail and wholesale deliveries in this area is expected by the Office of Defense Transportation, Harry G. Boyd, district manager, warned today.

This warning came after the new restrictions went into effect in this area this week, and was prompted from a volume of requests from operators seeking relief from the restrictions of the order.

"It has come to my attention," said Mr. Boyd, "that many of the operators in my district feel they can get special operating permits in an effort to avoid the restrictions without attempting to operate under the order."

The order, ODT-17-3b, although new to most of this territory has been in effect since May 27, 1943 in the eastern critical area. Mr. Boyd stated. The principle purpose of the order is to limit the number of wholesale and retail deliveries which may be made weekly and to prohibit the retail delivery of any article which does not exceed five pounds in weight or which does not exceed six inches in combined length and girth. All wholesale deliveries except ice are prohibited on Sunday, and all retail deliveries except ice and milk or cream and related dairy products when delivered in combination with milk or cream, are prohibited on Sunday, and delivery routes of each company must be immediately rearranged so that they neither duplicate or overlap.

The new restrictions are imposed not arbitrarily to curb truck operations, but to safeguard the continuance of retail and wholesale deliveries in the face of serious and growing wartime shortages of tires.

gasoline, spare parts, and the vehicles themselves. Mr. Boyd stated it is our intention to administer the order to the fullest extent. Operators found not in compliance with the order may have their Certificates of War Necessity cancelled. The number of deliveries specified in the order is the maximum that will be permitted for each commodity, regardless of the type of carrier involved. The Office of Defense Transportation emphasized Mr. Boyd said. Thus, if a private carrier had used up all the deliveries permitted for one week, he would not be permitted to hire another carrier to make additional deliveries.

The Youngstown District Office of the Office of Defense Transportation covers operations in the following counties: Mahoning, Trumbull and Columbiana in Ohio, and Lawrence and Mercer in Pennsylvania.

NEW BATTLE ON SUBSIDIES SEEN

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Another major battle between the New Deal and the powerful congressional farm bloc was forecast today as the House Banking Committee approved a bill completely outlawing consumer food subsidies after December 31.

It is considered certain that President Roosevelt will again intervene in the fight as he did last spring when he vetoed a similar bill to protect the administration's price rollback program.

According to war food administrator Marvin Jones' imposition of the ban by Congress would mean increases of five cents a pound in the price of butter, four cents a pound on cheese and higher prices on canned goods, dried beans, prunes, raisins, and sugar.

The ban is contained in a bill extending the life of the commodity credit corporation from next December 31 until June 30, 1945. The subject of a heated controversy within the committee, the section outlawing subsidies was adopted by only a 14-10 vote, and Rep. Wright Patman (D. Texas), a foe of the ban, immediately gave notice that he would carry the fight to the house floor when the bill comes up later this month.

House passage of the measure is, at the moment, considered likely. The lower branch voted overwhelmingly in favor of a consumer subsidy ban earlier this year until a presidential veto blocked the farm bloc's efforts.

NEW SABOTAGE IN DENMARK

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 15.—(INS)—New acts of sabotage were reported sweeping through Denmark today with the troubled city of Copenhagen emerging as the epicenter of the disturbance.

Reports from the Danish capital told of the burning "by incendiary bombs" of the large Hareskov sanatorium just outside the city. The buildings had been requisitioned by the German military forces, effective as of today.

A restaurant in Copenhagen, identified as the Tosca and said to be a haunt of Nazi soldiers, was ripped by an explosion which injured several Germans and a few Danes.

In Southern Denmark, delayed action mines exploded near the bases of vital electric transformers, nine of which were destroyed.

COUPONS SOLD

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15.—(INS)—A Pittsburgh insurance agent, Joseph Haulton, 41, today was charged by the OPA with selling stolen gasoline ration coupons worth 32,000 gallons to numbers men and other racketeers.

Haulton denied that he sold books of coupons for $1.50 to the numbers writers. OPA agents claimed that racketeers re-sold the books for $80 a piece. It is believed by authorities the coupons were sent here by robbery rings in Philadelphia and other eastern cities.

Repatriation Ship Reaches Marmagosa

MARMAGOSA, GOA, PORTUGUESE WEST INDIA, Oct. 15.—(INS)—The Japanese repatriation ship Teia Maru, carrying American and Canadian civilians from Japanese-controlled territory, arrived at the port of Marmagosa today.

The Gripsholm is expected to arrive later today to pick up the North Americans in exchange for Japanese Nationals hitherto held in the United States and Canada.

(In London, Reuters News agency quoted "latest advices" as reporting that the Gripsholm has been delayed and will not arrive in Marmagosa until tomorrow.)

The Teia Maru has more than 1,200 persons aboard, including 1,200 Americans, 240 Canadians and a number of Latin American Nationals. Nearly half of the Americans are missionaries; the remainder is composed of businessmen, engineers, artists and newspapermen from Japan, China, the Philippines, Indo-China and Siam.

Charge Millions Of Fake Coupons For Gas Printed

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Dennis A. Hill, 39-year-old alleged proprietor of a printing establishment which turned out counterfeit coupons for millions of gallons of gasoline, today was to be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Norman J. Griffin.

Hill, a negro, had been sought since October 3, and was captured by OPA agents in New York last night. The agents said Hill admitted operating the plant in North Philadelphia which turned out thousands of coupons, later distributed throughout the eastern section of the country.

Investigators said they are not satisfied that Hill is the head of the ring, which reportedly made thousands of dollars through the sale of the fake tickets.

President Expresses Regret At Loss Of Sixty U. S. Bombers

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS)—President Roosevelt expressed regret today over the loss of 60 American heavy bombers in the devastating raid on a vital German ball-bearing plant at Schweinfurt, but declared that the loss was not too heavy to pay for the results obtained.

The president said we must take our losses in this war to obtain victory and that he was not worried by a single instance of losing so many heavy bombers.

We must, he said, that this huge force of bombers probably put out of action for a long time to come a very important German war plant. By doing so it is slowing up Germany's war effort, he emphasized.

W. C. T. U. AND L. T. L.

Highland W.C.T.U. met at the home of Mrs. Roy E. Graham, Northview avenue, Tuesday afternoon. The meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. F. J. Fox, president.

In observance of Bible week an impressive devotional service was conducted before a background of the open Bible, the American flag, and a person praying the Lord's Prayer and the conflicting thoughts running through her mind, which was audibly expressed. The figure at prayer and accompanying reading were carried out by Mrs. E. O. Delancy and Mrs. R. S. Cline.

Miss Lenora Gealy, program chairman, introduced the speaker, Attorney Roy Mercer, whose topic was "Legislation." This was followed by an open discussion.

"Eternal Vigilance Is the Price of Liberty" was the subject of a discussion conducted by Mrs. Archie Allen, Mrs. Thomas Gilkey and Mrs. E. O. Delancy.

Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Allen reported on the Lawrence county convention. Action was taken to send the Union Signal to three ministers, the U.S.O., and the senior high school. Members of the union are working on a call from Deshon hospital for supplies needed such as paper bags, white cloths, knitted or crocheted afghans, and sunshine envelopes.

Mrs. Gayl Blum was taken into the union as a new member. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. F. E. Johnson, Delaware avenue, when Mrs. E. O. Delancy will be the leader.

Plaingrove Union

Plaingrove W. C. T. U. met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Robert McCommon with Mrs. Genevieve Maxwell, the president, as leader. Mrs. Clara Seth gave a report of the W. C. T. U. convention.

The program was as follows: opening hymn, "Twenty-third Psalm," scripture, by leader; prayer, Mrs. Martha McCommon; hymn, "O, Master, Let Me Walk With Thee," talk, "Today's Children," Mrs. Florence Shaw; talk, "Russian Youth," Mrs. Pearl Minor; poem, Mrs. Avanel Burns; talk, "Good Neighbor Policy for the World," Mrs. Edith Gardner; vocal solo, Mrs. Roberta McCommon; talk, "Broad-casting for Children," Mrs. Pearl Patterson; talk, "The Crime Wave," Mrs. Mary Burns.

The meeting closed with the Lord's prayer and lunch was served by the hostess and her aides.

LOW RATE ON BONDS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15.—(INS)—A million dollar bond issue, receipts of which are to be used for public improvements, was sold by the city of Pittsburgh today at an interest rate of 1 1/2 per cent, the lowest in the history of the city.

Lehman Brothers and associate of New York entered a total low bid of $1,003,750.

HERE'S HOW WIFE SLEW BURGLAR

MRS. FLORENCE ALLEN, of Chicago, with the aid of her husband, James, re-enacts the scene of her fatal shooting of a thief who had broken into their home. As Allen, investigating the barking of their fox terrier, reached the threshold of their bedroom he was confronted by the burglar, who threatened to kill him. Mrs. Allen crept up from behind her husband and shot the thief. (International)

"Our forces let the Red troops enter the city,"—German radio. That was a nice courtesy. In fact, they're getting more polite that way every day.

Civilian Workers To Receive Awards

Civilian workers employed by the War Department are to be recognized for their services. It was announced today by Major Sidney Ellis of the Deshon General hospital near Butler. The first awards to be made will come sometime early in December.

Under the plan of the Civilian Employees Awards three classes are established, first, second and third. In the first class are awards to civilian employees who have had more than six months of satisfactory service. They will be awarded a lapel ribbon which can be worn either on a coat or dress. The ribbon will be blue and silver colors with strands of braid at each end.

In class 2 are employees who have ten or more years of faithful service and this award will entitle employees to promotion in grade.

In class 3 are for any employee who has done exceptional work in or beyond the call of duty. This award automatically entitles the employee to a promotion in grade. This award will be made by the secretary of war or some person designated by him.

At the Deshon hospital there are a number of employees who will probably be considered for awards. Early in December the awards will be made.

We had one secretary of war who could silence critics. His Gestapo simply judged a troublesome editor and kept him there.

14. HE JOINS LEGION
DENVER—John Lawrence Mitchell of Denver claims to be the youngest member of the American Legion. Now, 14, he served seven months in the U. S. Navy until officers discovered his age and gave him an honorable discharge. His sea service, included dangerous convoy duty, made him eligible for Legion membership, the Leyden-Chiles-Wickersham Post of Denver decided.

OUT OF CIRCULATION
(International News Service)
ST. LOUIS—The famed St. Louis "mill," a lead slug the size of an American quarter, and used to pay sales taxes for many years, is just about out of circulation. As a result the state is collecting in coin of the realm. Whether residents are throwing the lead slugs away or just collecting them the state does not know, but whatever the cause, mills have become scarier than bobby pins, the authorities report.

CHARGE STOLEN COUPONS SOLD

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15.—(INS).—A Pittsburgh insurance agent, Joseph Haulton, 41, today was charged by the OPA with selling stolen gasoline ration coupons worth 22,000 gallons to numbers men and other racketeers.

Haulton denied that he sold books of coupons for $17.50 to the numbers writers. OPA agents claimed that racketeers re-sold the books for $90 a piece. It is believed by authorities the coupons were sent here by robbery rings in Philadelphia and other eastern cities.

Repatriation Ship Reaches Marmagao

MARMAGAO, GOA, PORTUGUESE WEST INDIA, Oct. 15.—(INS).—The Japanese repatriation ship Teia Maru, carrying American and Canadian civilians from Japanese-controlled territory, arrived at the port of Marmagao today.

The ship is expected to arrive later today to pick up the North Americans in exchange for Japanese Nationals hitherto held in the United States and Canada.

In London, Reuters News agency quoted "latest advices" as reporting that the ship has been delayed and will not arrive in Marmagao until tomorrow.

The Teia Maru has more than 1,000 persons aboard, including 1,200 Americans, 248 Canadians and a number of Latin American Nationals. Nearly half of the Americans are missionaries; the remainder is composed of businessmen, engineers, artists and newspapermen from Japan, China, the Philippines, Indo-China and Siam.

Charge Millions Of Fake Coupons For Gas Printed

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—(INS).—Dennis A. Hill, 39-year-old alleged proprietor of a printing establishment which turned out counterfeit ration coupons for millions of gallons of gasoline, today was to be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Norman J. Griffin.

Hill, a negro, had been sought since October 3, and was captured by OPA agents in New York last night. The agents said Hill admitted operating the plant in North Philadelphia which turned out thousands of coupons, later distributed throughout the eastern section of the country.

Investigators said they are not satisfied that Hill is the head of the ring, which reportedly made thousands of dollars through the sale of the fake tickets.

President Expresses Regret At Loss Of Sixty U. S. Bombers

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(INS).—President Roosevelt expressed regret today over the loss of 60 American heavy bombers in the devastating raid on a vital German ball-bearing plant at Schweinfurt, declared that the loss was not too heavy to pay for the results obtained.

The president said we must take our losses in this war to obtain victory and that he was not worried by a single instance of losing so many heavy bombers.

We must consider, he said, that this huge force of bombers probably put out of action for a long time to come a very important German war plant. By doing so it is slowing up Germany's war effort, he emphasized.

W. C. T. U. AND L. T. L.

Highland W.C.T.U. met at the home of Mrs. Roy E. Graham, Northview avenue, Tuesday afternoon. The meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. F. J. Fox, president.

In observance of Bible week an impressive devotional service was conducted before a background of the open Bible, the American flag, portrayal of a person praying the Lord's Prayer and the conflicting thoughts running through her mind, was audibly expressed. The figure at prayer, the accompanying reading were carried out by Mrs. E. O. Delancy and Mrs. R. S. Cline.

Miss Lenora Gealy, program chairman, introduced the speaker, Attorney Roy Mercer, whose topic was "Legislation". This was followed by an open discussion.

"Eternal Vigilance Is the Price of Liberty" was the subject of discussion conducted by Mrs. Archie Allen, Mrs. Thomas Gilkey and Mrs. E. O. Delancy.

Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Allen reported on the Lawrence county convention. Action was taken to send the Union Signal to three ministers, the U.S.O., and the senior high school. Members of the union are working on a call from Deshon hospital for supplies needed such as paper bags, white cloths, knitted or crocheted afghans, and sunshine envelopes.

Mrs. Gayl Blum was taken into the union as a new member. Refreshments were served by the hosts. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. F. Johnston, Delaware avenue, when Mrs. E. O. Delancy will be the leader.

Plainsboro Union

Plainsboro W. C. T. U. met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Robert McCommon with Mrs. Genevieve Maxwell the president, as leader. Mrs. Clara Seth gave a report of the W. C. T. U. convention.

The program was as follows: opening hymn, "Twenty-third Psalm"; scripture, by leader; prayer, Mrs. Martha McCommon; hymn, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee"; "Today's Children," Mrs. Florence Shaw; talk, "Russett Youth," Mrs. Pearl Minor; poem, Mrs. Avonell Burns; talk, "Good Neighbor Policy for the World," Mrs. Edith Gardner; vocal solo, Mrs. Roberta McCommon; talk, "Broad-casting for Children," Mrs. Pearl Patterson; talk, "The Crime Wave," Mrs. Mary Burns.

The meeting closed with the Lord's prayer and lunch was served by the hosts and her aides.

Civilian Workers To Receive Awards

Civilian workers employed by the War Department are to be recognized for their services. It was announced today by Major Sidney Ellis of the Deshon General hospital near Butler. The first awards to be made will come sometime early in December.

Under the plan of the Civilian Employees Awards three classes are established, first, second and third. In the first class are awards to civilian employees who have had more than six months of satisfactory service. They will be awarded a lapel ribbon which can be worn either on a coat or dress. The ribbon will be blue and silver colors with strands of braid at each end.

In class 2 are employees who have ten or more years of faithful service and this award will entitle employees to promotion in grade.

Class three is for any employee who has done exceptional work in or beyond the call of duty. This award automatically entitles the employee to a promotion in grade. This award will be made by the secretary of war or some person designated by him.

At the Deshon hospital there are a number of employees who will probably be considered for awards. Early in December the awards will be made.

We had one secretary of war who could silence critics. His Gestapo was a jugged a troublesome editor and kept him there.

OUT OF CIRCULATION
(International News Service)
ST. LOUIS—The famed St. Louis "mill," a lead slug the size of an American quarter, and used to pay sales taxes for many years, is just about out of circulation. As a result the state is collecting in coin of the realm. Whether residents are throwing the lead slugs away or just collecting them the state does not know, but whatever the cause, mills have become scarcer than bobby pins, the authorities report.

Farmers May Soon Be Raising Oil To Aid Wartime Needs

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 15.—(INS)—American farmers may soon be raising oil to meet the nation's wartime needs.

Chemists at Pennsylvania State College announced today that they have struck new sources of oil in the lowly farnweed, whose properties were declared to be similar to those of rapeseed oil which has been used in blending lubricating oil for high temperature work.

Prof. H. O. Triebold and J. R. Clifton, agricultural biochemists, have discovered that farnweed, or pennycress seed, is about one-third oil and of a quality that may be of great economic importance.

In 1940 nearly thirteen million pounds of rapeseed oil were imported into the United States, about nine-tenths of it from Japan. Farnweed oil may prove an acceptable substitute, the chemists stated, suitable not only for high quality lubrication but also for use in rubber substitutes, in paints and varnishes as a drying oil, and as an edible oil.

Farnweed may be easily cultivated, the two chemists declared. It is hardy and grows well without irrigation except in very dry locations. It is usually a pest in pastures, roadsides and fields of the western cornbelt and high plains states. Natural habits of the plant indicate that two crops per year might be obtained under favorable conditions.

A yield of 500 to 1000 pounds of oil per acre per season might reasonably be expected, Professor Triebold said.

PRINCETON

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Spear of New Castle were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Myers and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spear of Volant called on Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Morrison and family, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Henry and son Paul, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henry of Zion, Wednesday evening.

There will be preaching services Sunday at 10 o'clock followed by Sunday school at 11 o'clock, Rev. Clyde Emerick, pastor.

Mrs. Jennie White and Mrs. Ina White, Mrs. Tom Shellar and children, were the guests of Mrs. Florence Stevenson, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weigle and children were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Weisz, of Portersville Sunday afternoon.

Steve Wherle, who has been making his home with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dean, was removed to the New Castle hospital for observation, Wednesday morning.

Word has been received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker, that their son, Earl Parker, formerly of this place, that he has been transferred to California.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harlan of Pleasant Valley, celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary Saturday evening. The family was all present. A delicious lunch was served by their daughters.

The Friendly Neighbor Club met Friday at Mrs. Norman Book's home to sew for Red Cross. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Mack McConnell of New Castle. There will be a tureen dinner.

Sgt. Roy Weisz, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Weisz, of Portersville, who is stationed in Arkansas, spent a three day furlough with his wife and son. He will be accompanied back by his wife and son.

Resume Search For Boy In Mountains

CARLISLE, Pa., Oct. 15.—(INS)—State police and civilian volunteers resumed their search today for an eight-year-old farm boy after fruitlessly scouring the South mountains throughout the night.

The missing lad, John Coover, failed to return after leaving his home yesterday afternoon for a walk in the woods. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coover of Newville, R. D. 1, said he was barefooted and lightly clad.

Fears were felt for his safety because of inclement weather but police discounted any theory of foul play or that he had been picked up by a car as the Coover home is not near a main road.

In 1933 nearly 3,100,000 automobiles crossed the United States into Canada for touring purposes. That was the largest volume of auto traffic across any international border before the war.

At the meeting of the Sacred Heart Sodality of St. Lucy's church, announcement was made that the Sodality has purchased a bond of $1000.

President, Mrs. T. C. Rainey was in charge, and reports of the books were heard from Mrs. Elizabeth Marchionda, treasurer. The trustee is Mrs. Elizabeth Lombardo.

The rosary was recited by the group, Mrs. D. Colia, leading.

November 11, is the date for the next meeting.

M.E.G.'s MEET AT MRS. E. O. FARVER'S

On Thursday evening, Mrs. E. O. Farver, of 801 West Clayton street, was hostess to members of the M. E. G. Auxiliary of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Evan Campbell.

Mrs. Wade Daugherty presided, calling on various secretaries for reports. Mrs. Edwin Walker, secy. of missionary education spoke on theme of the year expressed in the words from a letter of St. Paul, and suggests a metaphor that Christ used to describe his followers: "A city set on a hill cannot be hid."

Mrs. F. W. Guy also used this theme in her talk on stewardship and read an appropriate poem.

Overseas hospital work for the year is 10 bed jackets and a money gift. Mrs. Ramona Allen is secretary. These jackets are to be turned in by February 1.

Mrs. H. E. Alexander, secy. for social education and action, has charge of packing a box to be sent to a southern mission center; gifts may still be brought to the church Sunday morning.

The fall District Meeting will be October 26, at New Wilmington with delegates, Mrs. Manley Broadus, Miss Ethel Scheidemann.

The evening topic "Today's strategy for tomorrow" was led by Mrs. A. C. Brown and Mrs. Edwin Walker. Mrs. Harry Kreppe was a special guest.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess, and co-hostess, Mrs. Ramona Allen.

BIBLE CLASS MEETS THURSDAY EVENING

Members of the S. C. W. Bible class of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, were entertained on Thursday evening, at the home of Mrs. J. J. Cunningham of 511 West Clinton street.

Mrs. W. C. Patterson presided at the business session which was followed by a social period.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. E. C. Hultbert.

The hostess served a delicious lunch, assisted by co-hostesses Mrs. G. E. Shaffer and Mrs. Walter Grischke.

Next meeting November 11.

AUXILIARY PLANS DISTRICT MEETING

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, on Thursday afternoon, at the Y.W.C.A.

During the business session, Mrs. C. A. Probst presided, when ritual exercises were reviewed, and final arrangements for the Union District meeting in this city, were completed.

Farmers May Soon Be Raising Oil To Aid Wartime Needs

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 15.—(INS)—American farmers may soon be raising oil to meet the nation's wartime needs.

Chemists at Pennsylvania State College announced today that they have struck new sources of oil in the lowly fanned, whose properties were declared to be similar to those of rapeseed oil which has been used in blending lubricating oil for high temperature work.

Prof. H. O. Triebold and J. R. Clopton, agricultural biochemists, have discovered that fanned, or pennycress seed, is about one-third oil and of a quality that may be of great economic importance.

In 1940 nearly thirteen million pounds of rapeseed oil were imported into the United States, about nine-tenths of it from Japan. Fanned oil may prove an acceptable substitute, the chemists stated, suitable not only for high quality lubrication but also for use in rubber substitutes, in paints and varnishes as a drying oil, and as an edible oil.

Fanned may be easily cultivated, and the two chemists declared. It is hardy and grows well without irrigation except in very dry locations. It is usually a pest in pastures, roadsides and fields of the western cornbelt and high plains states. Natural habits of the plant indicate that two crops per year might be obtained under favorable conditions.

A yield of 500 to 1000 pounds of oil per acre per season might reasonably be expected, Professor Triebold said.

PRINCETON

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Spear of New Castle were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Myers and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spear of Volant called on Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Morrison and family, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Henry and son Paul, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henry of Zion, Wednesday evening.

There will be preaching services Sunday at 10 o'clock followed by Sunday school at 11 o'clock. Rev. Clyde Emerick, pastor.

Mrs. Jennie White and Mrs. Ina White, Mrs. Tom Sheller and children, were the guests of Mrs. Florence Stevenson, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weigle and children were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Weisz, of Portersville Sunday afternoon.

Steve Wherle, who has been making his home with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dean, was removed to the New Castle hospital for observation, Wednesday morning.

Word has been received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker that their son, Earl Parker, formerly of this place, that he has been transferred to California.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harlan of Pleasant Valley, celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary Saturday evening. The family was all present. A delicious lunch was served by their daughters.

The Friendly Neighbor Club met Friday at Mrs. Norman Book's home to sew for Red Cross. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Mack McConnell of New Castle. There will be a luncheon dinner.

Sgt. Roy Weisz, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Weisz, of Portersville, who is stationed in Arkansas, spent a three day furlough with his wife and son. He will be accompanied back by his wife and son.

Resume Search For Boy In Mountains

CARLISLE, Pa., Oct. 15.—(INS)—State police and civilian volunteers resumed their search today for an eight-year-old farm boy after fruitlessly scouring the South mountains throughout the night.

'Canes Bid For Second WPIAL Victory Tonight

Washington Foe Here In 8 O'clock Contest; N C Gridders Favored

Rivals Clash 17th Time In Exciting Series Started In 1927; Presidents Last Beat 'Canes In 1931; Local Lineup Same As Last Week; Visitors Employ Double Wing; Bridenbaughmen Confident Of Registering Fifth Conquest Of Season; Fullback Smith Star Washington Back.

Arch rivals in a thrill-gorged series dating back to 1927, New Castle and Washington high toss football punches at each other for the 17th time under Taggart stadium's gigantic bulbs tonight. The swinehide party, fifth of the season at the DuShane street arena, starts at 8.

Victorious over two non-league opponents during the past two weeks, the local Class AA WPIAL 1942 crown holders bid for their second loop conquest and seek to keep intact an undefeated mark. The opposing coaches report the athletes primed for what may develop into a rip snorting contest.

Face Double-Wing

For the second straight week the 'Canes will pit their single-wing attack against a double-wing. As in the Farrell setto, the locals can expect an unrationed number of reverses, laterals, passes and possibly a few wide spreads.

In workouts, the Bridenbaughmen appeared quite adept at sneaking the Washington plays as unruffled by the seconds. That, plus the fact that the PaNews throttled the Farrell two-wing sally, forbodes trouble for the invaders.

The Amos-coached brigade is not equivalent to the 1942 eleven which extended the champs before yielding a 13-7 decision. While the locals are regarded weaker than last season, the visitors have been the harder hit, coming here with one letterman, Spriggs, an end.

Norman Smith, operating from fullback, is the Presidents' star performer. Weighing about 180, Smith bullets through the line well.

Washington is much lighter, especially on the line where the local boys will sport a big edge.

Locals All Set

Coach Bridenbaugh, after watching his proteges go through a brisk night drill last night, proclaimed his squad in "much better condition than we have been in several weeks." While End Germani and Sub Sam Flora still will be on the bench, Roussos is improving nicely and the rest of the squad appears in fine shape.

Fullback Ted Lewis, who tore the Farrell line to shreds last week, should be a key figure in the goal-

SPORTS RAMBLINGS

Football Pie:

Item No. 1, locally, the New Castle-Washington two A WPIAL piece de resistance tonight, leads off. Off the records knitted by the clubs so far and from information garnered via my ouija board, the 'Canes draw a five-touchdown margin should be the result. My guess, 33-0.

Congressman Samuel A. Weiss, who is to football what Townsend is to the Townsend plan, will serve as referee tonight. In sports circles Weiss is a national figure and one of the top athletic boosters in the land. Weiss, who is 100 per cent for sports in wartime, has been carrying the ball, literally speaking, 24 hours a day. Even FDR got wind of fiery Weiss.

Since my ouija board called the world series right on the nose, the forecasting strategem draws the task of calling the turn on tomorrow's horsehide chases. Here they are:

Junior High Title Tiff On Saturday

Ben Franklin-George Washington Elevens Will Battle At Taggart Stadium

Local gridiron devotees forecast a sizzling tussle when Ben Franklin and George Washington clash at Taggart stadium, Saturday night at 8, in a setto involving the junior high championship of the city.

A glance at the results of past title races shows that, since 1932, Ben Franklin climbed to the top a half dozen times while Washington and Mahoning plucked the brass ring one time apiece. On three occasions, Franklin and Washington were tied.

Franklin Favored

Franklin, coached by Austie Cowmeadow, has won both games it has played this far, crushing Sharon 26-6 and shading Farrell, 6-0. Washington dropped its first two engagements, to Ellwood City and Beaver Falls but came back with a 20-0 triumph over Sharon.

The North Hillers piloted by Art Alexander, will be outgunned and are listed as the underdog.

Both aggregations are completing a week of intensive drills this afternoon.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

H. F. Kilgus, new member of the Pennsylvania game commission, has appealed to sportsmen to remain out of the woods and fields until rains dampen trees and brush and reduces the danger of fire hazards. According to reports he had received from President Ross Leffler, hundreds of small fires throughout the state were sweeping across game lands and hunting territory and threatened heavy destruction to birds and animals. Kilgus reported at Brockway. Forests and fires were visible in all directions from Brockway. Kilgus said and fire-fighting brigades fought to control the flames. At Phillipsburg, one house was destroyed, a bread truck was wrecked and thousands of birds of game were feared lost in forest fires that swept through that section. While there have been no sizable fires in this district it would not be a poor idea for the sportsmen to obey Kilgus suggestion they stay out of the fields and woods until a heavy rain descends.

Stan Musial, National League batting champion will be the guest of honor at a community banquet Monday night at Donora. Larry Aurie has been signed to manage the Pittsburgh Hornets hockey team. John J. Sitarsky, coach at Bucknell, will report for military duty October 27. Ira Rodgers, coach of West Virginia U., has been named to the All-American football board headed by Christy Walsh of Hollywood. Mike Jacobs has leased St. Nicholas arena, New York, to act as a "feeder club" for Madison Square Garden. Young fighters will be developed there.

Panthers-Illini Game 'T' Battle

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 15.—Two "civilian" football teams, both flushed with initial successes in the 1943 grid campaign, will meet at Memorial Stadium Saturday when Illinois plays host to Pittsburgh.

Illinois gained a convincing victory over Wisconsin 25-7 last week end, while Clark Shaughnessy's team was equally impressive running up a 20-0 count against West Virginia.

The comparison goes further in that both teams will employ the T formation, which might lead to a free-scoring affair, although the Illinois line showed vast improvement on defense last week stopping Wisconsin's running attack cold.

State To Face Navy Saturday

Lions Expect Rather Gloomy Afternoon; Temple, 12 Other State Teams Play

A chastened Temple University team, bowed down under the weight of a 51-0 defeat by Army, will open the fourth week of the gridiron season tonight at Philadelphia with an attempt to redeem itself at the expense of thrice-beaten Ursinus college.

Twelve other Keystone state teams will play tomorrow in eight contests which are expected to see the University of Pennsylvania and Franklin & Marshall maintain their undefeated records.

The powerful Penn eleven, victor in its first three games, was expected to bowl over the Lakehurst Naval air station while F. & M. was picked to best Muhlenberg.

The Pitt Panthers, who finally broke into the winning column last week with a 20-0 triumph over West Virginia, will meet Illinois in an intercollegiate game at Champaign, while Penn state journeys to Annapolis for a none-too-bright future with the strong Navy aggregation.

Two Pennsylvania elevens will engage in their initial forays tomorrow, Lafayette meeting Willow Grove Naval Air station and Lehigh engaging a luckless Carnegie Tech team. Villanova will clash with Bucknell.

Temple Favored To Win Tonight

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—(INS)—On the basis of past performances, the Temple Owls are heavy favorites in tonight's game with Ursinus at Temple stadium.

The Bears have not yet scored a victory this season, while Temple has won two games.

PAULINE BETZ'S NET EXHIBITION STUNS MEXICANS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Pauline Betz playing what observers today termed the "best women's tennis ever seen in Mexico," defeated Margaret Osborne in the semi-finals of the second Pan-American tournament.

After Miss Osborne annexed the first set, 6-4, Miss Betz rallied to take the next two, 6-3, 6-0. Dorothy Bundy, meanwhile, downed Louise Brough, 6-2, 6-4.

In the men's doubles, Mexican champs Roland and Armando Vega beat the American Falkenburg-Brink team, 1-6, 8-6, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

Donora Honors Musial Monday

DONORA, Pa. Oct. 15.—(INS)—Uncle Sam's fighting forces will be represented at a community banquet honoring Stan Musial, National league batting champion, next Monday. A number of soldiers home on furlough will be present, along with Honus Wagner, George Susce and Joe Beggs. Charles Kelchner of Harrisburg, the scout who discovered Musial for the St. Louis Cardinals, will speak.

Hockey League To Open Oct. 27

Pittsburgh-Cleveland Inaugurate Campaign; 52-Game Schedule Is Arranged

HERSHEY, Pa., Oct. 15.—(INS)—The American hockey league will open its 1943-44 season on Oct. 27 with a game between the Cleveland Barons and the Pittsburgh Hornets at Pittsburgh.

On the following night, Pittsburgh will play at Cleveland and the Buffalo Bisons at Indianapolis. All six clubs in the league will be in action on Saturday, Oct. 30, with Providence at Hershey, Buffalo at Cleveland and Indianapolis at Pittsburgh.

Card 52 Game

A 52-game schedule has been arranged in place of the customary 56 tilts. Six clubs make up the league this season. There will be no eastern or western division as was true of the first half of the 1942-43 season. With the dropping of the New Haven Eagles at that time, the divisions were abolished. To meet the 52-game schedule, four clubs will play five games each and two clubs will play six games apiece.

The Hershey bears, who won top honors last season until they met defeat in the playoffs, will play their first game at the Hershey sports arena on Oct. 30 with the Providence Reds. Coach Cooney Weiland, who begins his third year as the Bears coach, is now in Canada obtaining young amateur recruits outside the draft area for professional play. Ice practice will begin early next week upon his return.

BADGERS UNDAUNTED

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 15.—(INS)—Undaunted by the power of the Notre Dame attack, Coach Harry Stuhldreher was optimistic today, declaring his green Wisconsin Badgers probably will play their best game of the season against the invading Irish at Camp Randall tomorrow.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

H. F. Kilgus, new member of the Pennsylvania game commission, has appealed to sportsmen to remain out of the woods and fields until rains dampen trees and brush and reduces the danger of fire hazards. According to reports he had received from President Ross Leffler, hundreds of small fires throughout the state were sweeping across game lands and hunting territory and threatened heavy destruction to birds and animals. Kilgus reported at Brockway. Forests and fires were visible in all directions from Brockway. Kilgus said and fire-fighting brigades fought to control the flames. At Phillipsburg, one house was destroyed, a bread truck was wrecked and thousands of birds of game were feared lost in forest fires that swept through that section. While there have been no sizable fires in this district it would not be a poor idea for the sportsmen to obey Kilgus suggestion they stay out of the fields and woods until a heavy rain descends.

Stan Musial, National League batting champion will be the guest of honor at a community banquet Monday night at Donora. Larry Aurie has been signed to manage the Pittsburgh Hornets hockey team. John J. Sitarsky, coach at Bucknell, will report for military duty October 27. Ira Rodgers, coach of West Virginia U., has been named to the All-American football board headed by Christy Walsh of Hollywood. Mike Jacobs has leased St. Nicholas arena, New York, to act as a "feeder club" for Madison Square Garden. Young fighters will be developed there.

Panthers-Illini Game 'T' Battle

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 15.—Two "civilian" football teams, both flushed with initial successes in the 1943 grid campaign, will meet at Memorial Stadium Saturday when Illinois plays host to Pittsburgh.

Illinois gained a convincing victory over Wisconsin 25-7 last week end, while Clark Shaughnessy's team was equally impressive running up a 20-0 count against West Virginia.

The comparison goes further in that both teams will employ the T formation, which might lead to a free-scoring affair, although the Illinois line showed vast improvement on defense last week stopping Wisconsin's running attack cold.

Motorists Are Urged To Cut Down Travel Near Forested Areas

HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Ross L. Leffler, president of the State Game commission, called upon motorists today to reduce travel through forested areas to a minimum during the current dry season.

"Travel in our forested areas should be reduced to an absolute minimum and carelessness with fire avoided at all times, he stated. He also urged civilians to enroll in the forest fire fighters service and assist in controlling fire.

Zivic In 174th Battle Tonight

DETROIT, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Fritz Zivic, former world's welterweight champion, is ruled a 2 to 1 favorite to beat Jose Basora, rugged Puerto Rican middleweight, when they swap punches in a scheduled 10 at Olympia tonight.

The bout, which promises to be a pier 6 brawl, will be the 174th recorded for Zivic in 13 years of campaigning.

Bobby McIntyre, veteran Detroit lightweight, will meet Billy Miller Pittsburgh, in an 8-round semi-windup.

Giants-Dodgers To Play Sunday

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(INS)—The New York Giants squad was all primed today to combat an expected aerial attack by the Brooklyn Dodgers when the two teams meet at Ebbets Field.

Steve Owen, head coach of the Giants, drilled the full squad yesterday at the Polo Grounds, concentrating on the curbing of passes. The Dodgers' Merlyn Condit, who was slightly injured in last Sunday's losing game with the Redskins in Washington, is expected to recover sufficiently to appear against the Giants.

Baseball Faces Tough Sledding; May Be Curtailed

Official Washington Thinks There's Too Much Escape-ism, Out Of Control

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(International News Service Staff Writer)
CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Unless in the meantime there's an abrupt reversal in Washington opinion, baseball next spring may find its activities considerably curtailed, if not entirely nullified. So may the horse tracks and other symptoms of public behaviorism.

The point is that official Washington, which once prescribed the thing as a tonic for public morale, now thinks the too much escape-ism, that the damned thing is practically rampant and out of control. Also that there's too little money going into war bonds; and that too much of this is being reclaimed by the buyer at the end of the 60-day limit.

These statements are not ours. But they come to us pretty straight from a source that's not to be questioned.

Tour Tipoff
They represent, however, a sharp volte-face from the war department's recent attitude, about the baseball all star troupe, which was first to tour North Africa, then the South Pacific and, finally, nowhere at all. But this turn-about may be the first step in a general trend.

For it seems that official Washington is now against escape-ism, having come to feel that too many people are escaping into ball parks, race tracks, and the like. And that all this is happening at a sacrifice of war-consciousness.

However, something must have happened very recently to change the official viewpoint, for the war department (having suggested the all-star tour) suddenly dispatched Lieut. Col. Larry MacPhail to Chicago for a conference with Judge Landis, just as the party was making serious preparations to start the junket.

MacPhail's word to Landis was to quietly forget the thing, that somebody high in the councils of the government had decided that the junket "just didn't look right."

Congressmen Disappointed?
A few members of congress who were at the world series noted with disapproval that not even a patter of polite applause greeted the daily announcement of donations from the receipts to war charities.

The distinguished lawmakers were looking for a great deal. If they expected a world series crowd to stop yammering in the middle of a ball game to acknowledge anything that's irrelevant to the issue. But perhaps that's the point—that, if we don't have the ball game, we won't have the middle of it in which not to cheer announcements of war charity donations. And that there's nothing irrelevant about war.

As for sports promoters they can show where they pay an income tax of $40,000 on the first $100,000 of their profits, the rate going up in a steep climb after that. They also can show where they keep money in circulation.

BUCKNELL PILOT WILL TAKE EXAM

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 15.—(INS)—John J. Sitarisky, head football coach at Bucknell University, prepared today to relinquish his duties and enter the armed forces.

Reporting with him on October 27 for a physical examination will be Henry N. Peters, trainer, who also volunteered.

J. Ellwood Ludwig, line coach, was expected to take over the duties of head coach.

RUMOR DENIED

HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—(INS)—The state game commission has denied rumors that county residents are unable to secure permits for hunting antelope deer because non-residents have exhausted the permit quota. Ross L. Leffler, president, said a survey disclosed that permits were available in all counties affected other than Warren and Sullivan.

Confesses Killing Wife After Quarrel

DETROIT, Oct. 15.—(INS)—Frank Peli, 59, who confessed he killed his 41-year-old wife of eight months because "she tried to turn everyone against me," faces a first degree murder warrant today.

Detective John Pillosh, of the sheriff's department, said Peli shot his wife, Elizabeth, twice through the head and then fled with their eight-month-old son.

Later he surrendered at police headquarters. According to Peli's story, the couple quarreled yesterday. He brought her a gun, saying, "the only way for you to get rid of me is to shoot me or for me to shoot you." When she refused to use the gun, Peli said he shot her.

Truck Crashes Into Storefront

GROVE CITY, Oct. 15.—More than $2,000 damages is estimated in a crash early yesterday when a truck, with the driver evidently asleep at the wheel, crashed through the front of the Hoffman store, North Broad street, and stopped ten feet inside the building.

Joseph C. Canon, 17, of R. D. 2, Sharon, the driver, said he dozed off and failed to make the slight turn at the store.

The crash ignited a carton of matches on a shelf, and Canon leaped from the cab, unhurt, and tossed the blazing box into the street. The entire front of the building was wrecked, as well as show cases, shelves and stocks of merchandise in the front of the store.

The proprietor who was asleep in an upstairs apartment was awakened by the crash. The driver pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving preferred by Police Chief James Reed, and paid his fine.

Now Declare Boy Had Chickenpox

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 15.—(INS)—It was simply a case of mistaken identity physicians decided today as they lifted the quarantine which had held more than 250 guests and employees virtually prisoners in the George Washington hotel.

The illness of a 17-year-old boy was diagnosed finally as a severe case of chickenpox and not small pox, as first believed.

The quarantine was lifted after Dr. S. J. Dickey, state epidemiologist from Harrisburg, rushed to the hotel and conferred with other physicians.

Many of the guests and employees of the hotel had already been vaccinated against smallpox by the time Dr. Dickey arrived.

The illness of a 17-year-old boy was diagnosed finally as a severe case of chickenpox and not small pox, as first believed.

The quarantine was lifted after Dr. S. J. Dickey, state epidemiologist from Harrisburg, rushed to the hotel and conferred with other physicians.

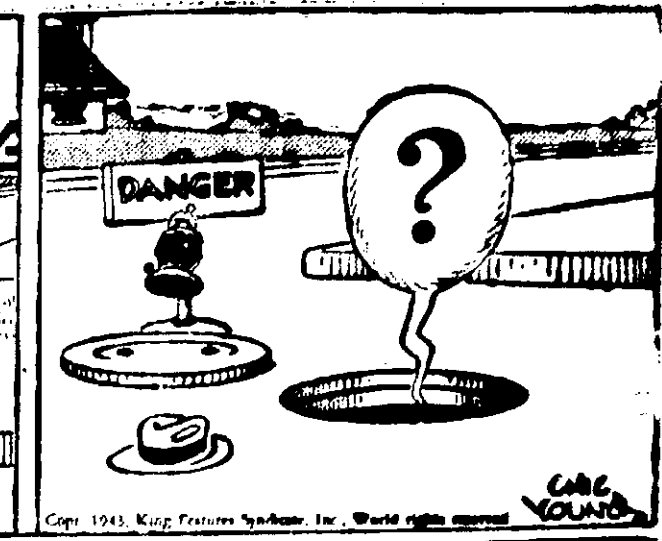

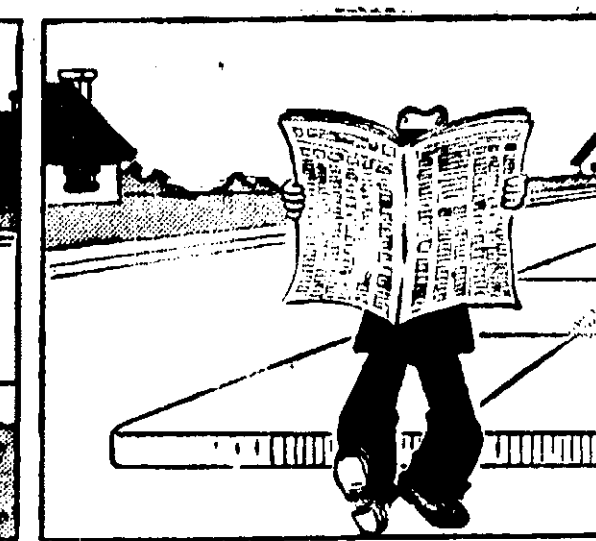

Many of the guests and employees of the hotel had already been vaccinated against smallpox by the time Dr. Dickey arrived.

A British submarine blew up part of the famous Monte Carlo casino when two of its three torpedoes missed an Axis ship, alighted on the beach and exploded under the casino.
